Carter to move 'aggressively' on pledges

by WESLEY G. PIPPERT

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter pledged Thursday night to move "aggressively in keeping my promises to the American people" despite the narrowness of the margin by which he won the presidency.

At his first news conference since winning the election Tuesday, Carter also said there was "a strong possibility" he would recommend a tax cut after taking office in January if the economy is as sluggish then as it is now.

If so, he said, the tax cut would benefit wage-earners, probably those at the lower income levels, who tend to spend all they earn and who would thus stimulate the economy.

Carter said he probably would not pick a cabinet until December, but it would be balanced after a careful, thorough, nationwide talent search.

HE ALSO PROMISED "a substantial amount of continuity" in foreign policy, to hold at least two news conferences a month and to give Walter Mondale more responsibilities than any vice president has ever held.

Carter appeared relaxed at the news conference held outside the old train depot which served as his hometown campaign headquarters.

He joked about the election results. He said with a grin that he wished he had carried every state.

But several times he insisted that the close margin by which he defeated President Ford would not alter his determination to carry out the broad reforms he had promised in his campaign.

"I don't feel timid, or cautious or reticent about moving aggressively," he said.

"I'll be very aggressive in keeping my promises to the American people. I think Congress will be willing to cooperate at least in the early stages."

He won a majority of all the votes cast, he said, while in the presidential elections of 1948, 1960 and 1968 — when Harry Truman, John Kennedy, and Richard Nixon were elected — the voters had given no candidate a majority.

CARTER STRESSED that Mondale, a liberal in the Senate, would play an active role — "a larger role in the administration than any other vice president has ever played."

Mondale attended the televised news conference, but was asked no questions.

"Sen. Mondale will work as a full partner with me," Carter said.

On other matters, Carter:

• Said he felt an increase this winter in world oil prices by the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would be "a very serious blow."

• Stressed he could not interfere with OPEC or influence other matters because Ford continues to exercise full authority. "I have none what-

College test cram courses—How good are they?

by DIANE GRANAT

A Chicago-based test preparation company tells high school seniors it can teach you "everything you should have had in high school" when you pay $150 for its eight-week SAT and ACT preparation course.

Another local company says students who complete its $200 10-lesson course report an "average 100-point increase in each area of the SAT."

Both of these Chicago test preparation centers promise help for worried high school seniors. But the truth of success stories like these may be the focus of an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission.

THE FTC HAS announced it will investigate companies offering crash courses for college entrance tests to see if their customers are being defrauded. The FTC said it wants to know if the courses can increase test scores and whether the amount of increase is as great as advertised.

A representative of one testing center told a reporter calling as a prospective customer that its course will "teach you everything you missed" in high school.

"We've had people go up 200 points on the SAT and 8 or 9 points on the ACT," said the center's director. "Once in a while you get somebody who won't go up, but if you really concentrate you'll go up."

Another test-training school in Chicago charges $200 plus a $35 refundable deposit for students to work with tutors, and use tapes and preparation books before taking SATs or ACTs.

"THE COURSE TEACHES how to take a standardized test and how to handle the knowledge required on the test," a representative told a reporter who said her son wanted to take the course.

The course is supposed to take the mystery out of test taking, the reporter was told. "When the kids finally take the test, there are supposed to be no surprises," the representative said.

Sheldon Smith, Chicago administrator of the Stanley H. Kaplan Educational Center, said the national test preparation company will probably be checked out in the FTC's investigation. He said the Kaplan centers, based in New York, "have a good track record" but they do not Tomorrow morning some high school seniors may be scared silly by this question. But local high schools are trying to make sure they are not.

The above question is an example of what thousands of high school seniors face each year when they take the SAT and ACT exams — those college entrance tests which could make the difference in a student's future fate in higher education.

Several hundred students in the Northwest suburbs will take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) tomorrow morning. Hundreds more will take an exam offered in two weeks by the American College Testing Program (ACT).

Some students will walk into the tests cold. Nervously clutching their No. 2 pencils they will be terrified by a multitude of multiple choices.

BUT OTHERS will be more prepared. They will have studied vocabulary words and reviewed their math skills. Synonyms, antonyms and analogies will be old hat to them.

The reason these students will know what they're doing — or at least have a better idea than some — is that local high schools have taken it upon themselves to prepare their students

'Simply supply and demand'

Land prices skyrocketing as parcels start to dwindle

by NANCY GOTLER

In 1967, Albert C. Drewes sold his farm for $1 million and watched as developers planted the seeds of progress.

Drewes was one of the last of a vanishing breed. The farmland that 20 years ago encircled Arlington Heights has been whittled to a few scattered parcels.

And as land becomes scarce, prices go up, driving developers elsewhere and eroding a potential tax revenue gold mine.

"SIX YEARS AGO we were just flooded by requests for development," said Village Planeer Joseph Kesler. "We could hardly handle them they were coming in so fast. But that was a different economy and a different market."

In today's market, land, when it can be found, sells to developers for $25,000 to $30,000 an acre; lots with utilities, traditionally one-third of an acre, are snapped up for $15,000; and two-story, four-bedroom homes are listing for more than $100,000.

Kesler said land prices nationally are increasing 9 per cent a year. But one builder, Al Neiberg of Meister-Neiberg Co., Wheeling, claims land locally has increased 70 per cent a year since he bought a 145-acre farm and Neiberg said he bought 74 acres in 1961 at $3,900 each and 71 acres in 1967 for $10,000 each — for a total of $998,600.

"TODAY THAT same land would be worth $25,000 an acre," Neiberg said."The reason for the increase is simply supply and demand.

"Arlington Heights is a very clean community with no problems and people want to live there," he said. "These factors contribute to Arlington Heights' land being the most expensive in the Northwest suburbs."

Land in or near the central business district is even more expensive, although sometimes harder to sell.

Sheldon F. Good of the Chicago real estate firm that bears his name, is selling two parcels of business-area land. Each is less than one-half acre and Good is asking $110,000 for one and $225,000 for the other.

But he admits the prices are high and said both have been on the market for more than a year.

"THE ECONOMY and parking and building restrictions are keeping buyers away," Good said. "Other communities, like Hoffman Estates, are growing substantially because of the stiff restrictions in Arlington Heights."

The plan commission recently recommended to the village board that the number of parking spaces required per square foot of building space in the downtown area be relaxed.

Good agreed, however, that the housing market is booming.

Huge profits haven't tempted all landowners to sell, however.

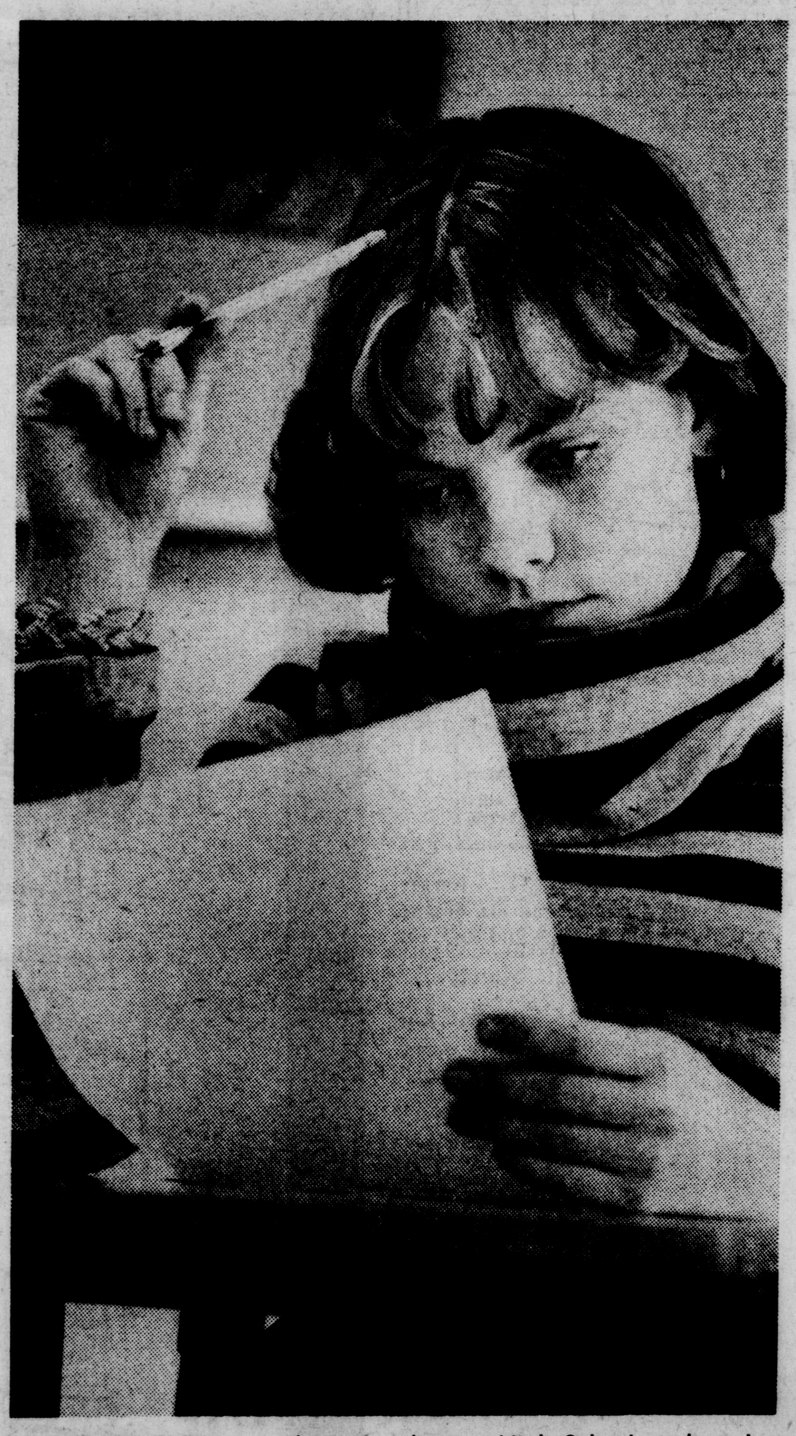

CHARLES KARAVIDAS and his fanily own 22 acres of unincorporated land along Rand Road. They farm tomatoes and corn, and refuse to join the selling trend.

"It's farmland, and the property is not for sale," Karavidas said. "We intend to keep using it as farmland. My father used to like to work out there and it was a very convenient location for him.

"Most people sell because they can't afford to farm any more. We can and prefer to," he said.

Earl Maize, manager of Annen-Busse Realtors, explained why some

'Robber' pulls off a perfect store holdup

by DAVE IBATA

The lean man in the brown coat hesitated before walking into the all-night food store. His eyes darted about.

He pushed open the door and walked in. The clerk, a blonde woman in her 20s, smiled a greeting. The man grinned back, picked up a pack of cigarets from a display and set it on the cashier's counter along with two quarters.

THE CLERK rang up the sale, and as the cash register's drawer banged open, the man leaned over and caught a glimpse of $10 and $20 bills tucked in bundles in the drawer.

The customer picked up the cigarets as the girl closed the cash drawer. He circled the counter to the magazine display, his eyes again scanning the store.

Then, quickly, he put his right hand in a coat pocket, walked back to the counter and gestured with the bulge in his pocket.

"All right," he said. "Give me the money."

The clerk opened the cash drawer and handed him a wad of bills.

"Good. Now get down on the floor and don't get up."

THE CLERK COMPLIED. The man turned, looked about him, and walked quickly out the door.

The girl stood as the man walked back into the store. And the cameras stopped churning and the newspaper and television reporters stepped forward and congratulated the man for a robbery well done.

The "robber," Ray Johnson, of San Diego, Calif., knows the profession well. He is an ex-convict, having spent 25 of his 48 years behind bars for armed robberies in his native state.

Johnson since has gone straight, and works as a crime prevention consultant for the same sort of stores he once robbed. Johnson is in Chicago this week, helping to implement a program to deter would-be bandits of 7-Eleven Food Stores.

He demonstrated his past profession for reporters Thursday morning at the 7-Eleven store, 2258 W. Belmont Ave., Chicago.

JOHNSON IS research associate, director and program manager of the crime prevention program at the Western Behavioral Science Institute in La Jolla, Calif. He and the institute have been hired by 7-Eleven to help

Ford to receive $90,000 pension, office expenses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will leave the White House Jan. 20 with an annual government pension of more than $90,000 and an additional $96,000 a year for staff and office expenses.

He also will have round-the-clock Secret Service protection for the rest of his life.

The President will receive $63,000 annually as a former chief executive and about $30,500 from other government service. The second figure is compiled on the basis of his 24 years as a congressman and two years of service in the Navy.

As a former President, Ford will be given furnished and equipped office space in a federal building, probably in the Washington area because he is expected to move back to his home in Alexandria, Va.

He will have franking privileges. Salaries for his staff will be paid from the expenses. By law, he can pay up to $44,600 to one staffer.

A past president is paid the same salary as a cabinet member.

Kusper to clarify vote dispute in 10th

The controversy over uncounted absentee ballots in the 10th Congressional District race may be clarified today by Cook County Clerk Stanley Kusper. Kusper called a press conference for this morning to discuss the dispute involving the race between U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva and Republican Samuel H. Young. Unofficial vote totals show Young with a 258 vote lead over Mikva, but there is a dispute over an undetermined number of absentee ballots which may have been snt to the wrong precincts Tuesday and not counted by election judges.

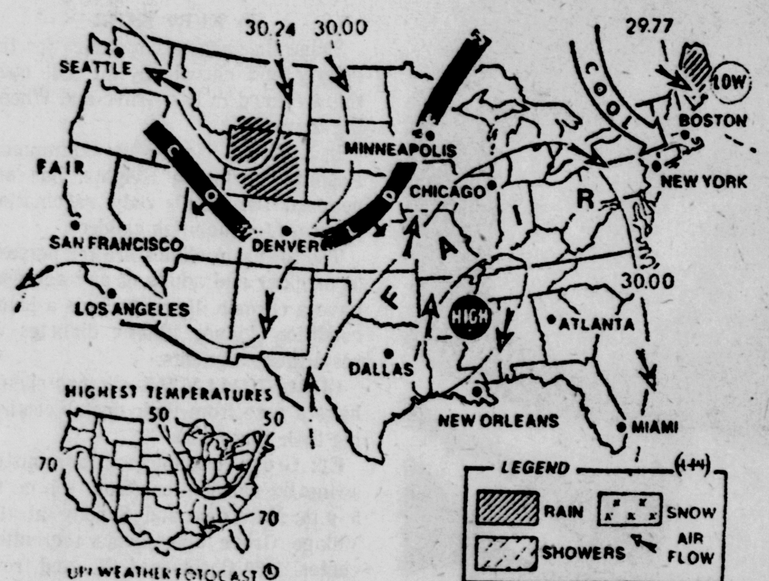

Youth to get mental exam

A 16-year-old Niles youth accused of raping and attempting to murder a 16-year-old Des Plaines girl, has been ordered to undergo psychiatric examination. The youth was declared delinquent Thursday by Cook County Juvenile Court in Chicago and was placed in the custody of the Illinois Dept. of Corrections. The youth appeared in court Thursday on charges of rape, attempted murder, aggravated battery, deviate sexual assault and unlawful use of a weapon in connection with the July 29 incident. Police said the victim was stabbed and slashed with a small knife during the attack. Niles police also charged the youth with rape, burglary, aggravated battery and armed robbery in connection with the July 23 attack on a 68-year-old Niles woman.

Man sought in gas station robbery

Police are searching for a man who robbed a Des Plaines service station at gunpoint Wednesday escaping with $622 in cash. The Martin service station, 1982 River Rd., was held up by a man wearing a ski mask who forced two attendants at the station to lie down in a back room while the robber escaped. Police had no clues Thursday on how the bandit escaped. It was the second armed robbery of a service station in the city this week. Monday two men robbed a Clark station of $100. Two suspects in that robbery later were apprehended when they allegedly robbed a Park Ridge service station.

A YOUNG SOUTH BEND lady walks to school Thursday through a child's joy — the season's first snow. It was a good one, too. Nine inches was dumped on the area, closing some schools because of power outages.

Snow, not leaves, falls in Indiana

By United Press International

Snow came wafting down like autumn leaves in northern Indiana Thursday.

More than 11 inches of the unseasonable wet snow piled up in LaPorte, Ind., in a snowbelt area south of Lake Michigan. Nine inches had fallen by midday in South Bend, Ind.

"Yesterday we were picking up leaves," said LaPorte Street Superintendent Joseph Sigel. "This morning we were plowing snow. And we didn't expect much more than snow flurries."

Schools closed in the LaPorte area. Absenteeism reached 33 per cent of the work force at factories.

Two major highways — U.S. 20 and Indiana 2 — and many secondary roads were closed. Traffic crawled on other streets and highways, including the Indiana Toll Road.

A tier of five counties across northern Indiana was hardest hit. The heavy, moisture-laden snow triggered major power failures involving 5,000 families and businesses in South Bend and some 1,000 in LaPorte.

"We're hurting but we're mopping them up," said a spokesman for Northern Indiana Public Service Co., referring to downed power lines. Telephone service was out in some areas.

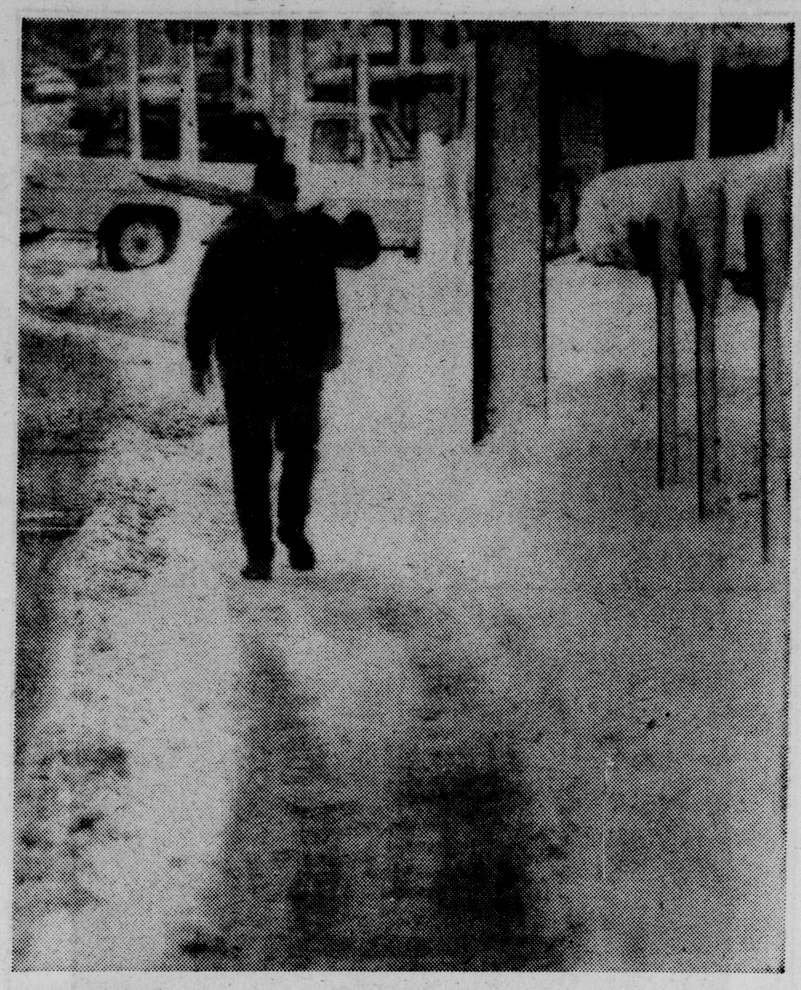

Lighter snows swirled off the western Great Lakes into other snowbelt communities. Two-inch snowfalls slicked streets in several Michigan cities along the shores of Lakes Superior and Michigan.

Flurries were reported as far south as Cairo, Ill., Indianapolis, Ind., and Dayton, Ohio.

Don Semancik, meteorologist at the National Weather Service in Cairo, said the snow was rushing the season.

"I think our winter is going to be a lot colder this year," Semancik said, "and it would be a continuation of the cooler than normal weather we've been having since May."

Cold air swept from the northern Plains into interior sections of the Southeast. Freezing temperatures hit northern sections of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. Northern Plains temperatures hit the teens.

MORE THAN 11 inches of snow hit LaPorte, Ind. Thursday closing schools and making travel hazardous. This man takes to street as easiest way of walking in order to dig his car out with a snowshovel.

Carter-Mondale meet to plan transition

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale met Thursday to begin planning the transition of government into their hands. An aide said there probably will be no announcements of major appointments for some time.

Press secretary Jody Powell said the president-elect and vice president-elect intended to build a "very thorough . . . very deliberate . . . transition to a new administration."

Powell, one of a half-dozen intimate advisers who participated in the meeting, said Carter was given a "15-inch stack" of briefing papers. Powell said, however, that Carter did not expect to make any major decisions for the time being.

"He's just getting his first look at most of this," Powell said during a briefing along the railroad tracks on Main St.

He said such meetings were primarily about "starting the transition process — what we look at first, how we divide up responsibilities . . . Obviously the appointments he will make, both cabinet level and others, will be one of the most important sets of decisions to be made during this period."

"It is his inclination to be very through, to be very deliberate, and to make every effort to take as much time as is necessary to make sure he makes the best choices he can," Powell said.

Another Carter adviser said earlier that he expects the President-elect to give top priority to the federal budget in the transition period, including revisions of President Ford's spending proposals.

Carter will leave Saturday on a "working vacation" on St. Simons Island near Brunswick, Ga. He will stay at Musgrove Plantation, owned by tobacco heir Smith Bagley, but will reimburse his host for estimated expenses of $1,000 to $2,000 for him and his family.

"I would not expect any announcement of major appointments in the near future," Powell said.

Powell said Carter would spend all of his time studying the transition papers and that he did not plan to meet either with staff or others.

Carter, since returning home victoriously early Wednesday, has spoken with Ford and also with outgoing White House chief of staff Richard Cheney. Arrangements were made for Carter's transition director, Jack Watson, to meet with Cheney "in a day or so."

Ford contemplates future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford cleaned up his desk, appointed a transition team to smooth the way for Jimmy Carter's presidency and contemplated his own future Thursday as an election aftermath quiet settled over the White House. An aide said Ford had always been a "today" man, but he now must make plans for a future outside the White House.

"It's like planning for a funeral," the aide said. Ford named White House counselor John O. Marsh to be his chief representative in talks with Carter's envoys on the changeover after Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

The President also has asked Maj. Robert Barrett, his military aide, to handle his own post-presidential planning, including the moving of his papers and belongings out of the White House. In a quiet, mellow atmosphere, Ford did spadework for the federal budget he must submit to the next Congress and cleared his desk of paperwork in preparation for departure Sunday on a vacation trip to Palm Springs, Calif.

Ford accepts resignation of envoy Helms

With lavish praise, President Ford Thursday formally accepted the resignation of controversial Richard C. Helms as ambassador to Iran. In a letter dated Oct. 9, Helms said he was picking that date "to communicate my decision to you, because I do not want my resignation construed as having political overtones . . . or as being affected in any way by the presidential election in November."

In accepting Helms resignation after his 34 years in government service, Ford said "you carried out your duties with dedication and skill" and praised him for the "many insights" he provided in his diplomatic work. Helms was named ambassador to Iran by former President Nixon. He formerly served as CIA director and was summoned several times to testify before congressional committees on abuses in the intelligence community.

Mansfield sees more effective Senate

Retiring Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday the new Senate will be just "as liberal" as the outgoing one but will be more effective because it will no longer have to fight "a veto-happy president." Mansfield also appeared to leave the door open for some future role in the Carter administration and said he thought Republicans had a "death wish" which has prevented the GOP from expanding its base of support. Mansfield, who returns to private life at the end of the year, predicted in an interview there would be "a good deal of togetherness" in the early months of next year between President-elect Carter and Congress. "How long it will last will depend on developments," Mansfield said.

Airliner hijacked, Pole surrenders

A 20-year-old Pole used a fake hand grenade made of bread to hijack a Polish airliner bound for Warsaw and forced it to Vienna. Police charged him with air piracy and said he had just been released from a Danish jail. Austrian police said the suspect, Andrzej Jaroslaw Karasinski, surrendered shortly after the plane landed at Vienna's Schwechat Airport. He was arrested on air piracy charges, which carry a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail. Karasinski used a fake hand grenade made of bread to hijack the jet which was enroute from Copenhagen to Warsaw. Police said the youth had just been released from a Danish jail and was attempting to avoid deportation to Poland.

Tide turns Venice streets into lakes

An Adriatic tide turned Venice streets and piazzas into muddy lakes Thursday on the 10th anniversary of floods that destroyed and damaged art treasures here and in Florence. Sirens warned Venetians of the fourth high tide in three weeks. Brownish-gray waters swirled over St. Mark's Square and other low-lying parts of the city, rising 42 inches above normal before receding.

Venetians walked over plank gangways or donned high rubber boots to wade through streets. Merchants removed drenched wares from shops. Italian newspapers devoted full pages to the 10th anniversary of the Nov. 4, 1966 floods in which more than 100 persons died and which caused $2.4 billion in damage, largely to art masterpieces.

Fierce fighting rages across Beirut

Moslems and Christians battled across Beirut Thursday in the fiercest fighting since the latest cease-fire went into effect. The fighting set the parliament building on fire and delayed deployment of an Arab peacekeeping force. The leftists and rightists hurled tank, rocket, mortar and machine gun fire at one another along confrontation lines in the uptown commercial district, the midtown museum front and the southern suburbs. The fighting threatened the 55th cease-fire which entered its 15th day, and delayed the arrival and deployment of the 30,000 man Arab peacekeeping force due to move into the "green line" no-man's land separating the warring factions.

Labor government loses majority

Britain's Labor party government Thursday lost its overall majority in the House of Commons with the loss of two seats to the Conservatives in three special elections in Labor's northern industrial stronghold. Nick Underhill, national agent of the Labor party, however, immediately discounted any speculation that Prime Minister James Callaghan would call a mid-term general election.

Rhodesia independence date nixed

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Black and white Rhodesians alike Thursday rejected a British compromise proposal to set March 1, 1978 as the date for independence in Rhodesia under black majority rule.

Black leaders said the date is too far away and the white minority regime said it would be too soon.

Ivor Richard, the British chairman of the conference, put forward the compromise date in an effort to avoid a collapse of the talks following the decision by Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith to quit Geneva and return to Salisbury.

"Twelve months or we go," said Robert Mugabe, militant leader of the Zimbabwe African National union.

Mugabe's partner in a joint black "Patriotic Front" at the conference, Joshua Nkomo, remarked: "Ha-ha."

The two other black delegation leaders — Bishop Abel Muzorewa and Ndabaningi Sithole — also flatly rejected the British proposal.

Pieter van der Byl, Rhodesia's hardline foreign minister and the man left in charge of the white delegation after Smith's departure, also rejected the date but said he found "a more conservative note" had entered the talks.

"I think we can be more optimistic than we were a few days ago," he said.

Van der Byl said the Smith government is willing to consider a reduction in the two-year time limit proposed by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. But asked if he would be willing to agree to the 16 months proposed by Richard, van der Byl said: "That would be overstating the case."

Mugabe and Knomo have demanded independence under black rule by Sept. 1, 1977. British experts consider that the necessary legal and constitutional procedures could not be completed within that time.

Richard said the conference agreed to set a date according to the time required by the legal and constitutional process, but the white and black delegations disagreed with his assessment.

"Mr. Smith's delegation took the view that it would take slightly less than two years," he said. "The nationalist delegations took the view that it could be completed within 12 months."

Earlier, Muzorewa said the conference was "threatened" by Smith's departure.

MSG, caffeine levels questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government commissioned report Thursday questioned the safety of MSG — the alleged culprit in "Chinese restaurant syndrome" — and suggested cutting caffeine levels in cola drinks.

The review commissioned for the Food and Drug Administration also recommended BHT, a preservative used to keep fats in foods from spoiling, be allowed to continue in use at present levels pending more study.

The review of more than 500 ingredients began in 1969. The agency will later decide whether the ingredients should be left on the market, restricted or banned entirely.

The study said MSG (monosodium glutamate) should not be used in baby or junior food at all because animal studies suggest it may subject the newly born to brain damage. The baby food industry stopped using MSG voluntarily in 1970 but the report, if adopted by the FDA, would make the move mandatory.

The report said any conclusion MSG is safe for adults, in whose diet it appears at the rate of 200 milligrams per day, should be "guarded."

A panel of scientists reviewing caffeine gave the FDA a split decision on whether it should be allowed to continue at present levels in cola drinks. One group recommended restrictions while the other said there is no evidence it is unsafe but suggested additional studies.

The report did say there are several "areas of concern" regarding caffeine, including its impact on children "during the period of brain growth and development."

Irving said the present allowable caffeine level is 50 miligrams per 12 ounces and while some of that comes naturally from the cola bean, most of it is added to make the drinks flavorful and to increase their wake-up effect.

RTA directors reject 8-month ad campaign

by LYNN ASINOF

An eight-month advertising program that would have cost a maximum of $356,000 was rejected Thursday in a 5 - 4 vote of the Regional Transportation Authority's board of directors.

Rejection of the program with Lee King and Partners Inc., proposed by the RTA's public relations department, came after directors clashed over the need to "sell" the RTA concept throughout the six-county area.

"I would think you would agree it is an understatement that we do not have great acceptance of the RTA concept," said Louis Dombrowski, public relations director, referring to the unpopularity of RTA in the suburbs.

SEVERAL CHICAGO directors said an ad campaign is needed to make the public aware of the transportation available. Board member Patrick O'Malley of Chicago said the agency could use some promotion following recent months of bitter feuding between city and suburban members over Milton Pikarsky's chairmanship.

"We as nine people have done the best job of destroying the image of RTA that anyone could have done," O'Malley said. "We should do something about improving it."

O'Malley said "the true story of what this organization has done has not been told," noting most persons are unaware of advances in public transportation that have occurred since the agency was formed more than two years ago.

Several suburban directors, however, said the money could be better spent in putting new service on suburban streets.

"I DON'T KNOW when we really think about it whether we can go out and justify this to the people," director Jerry Boose of St. Charles said about the proposed advertising campaign.

Director D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the RTA should advertise its transportation services, but he said a unified program should be developed first. He said the agency needs "a total marketing strategy."

"We've got a travel center that no one knows about. We have a universal transfer pass that has gone virtually unnoticed," he said.

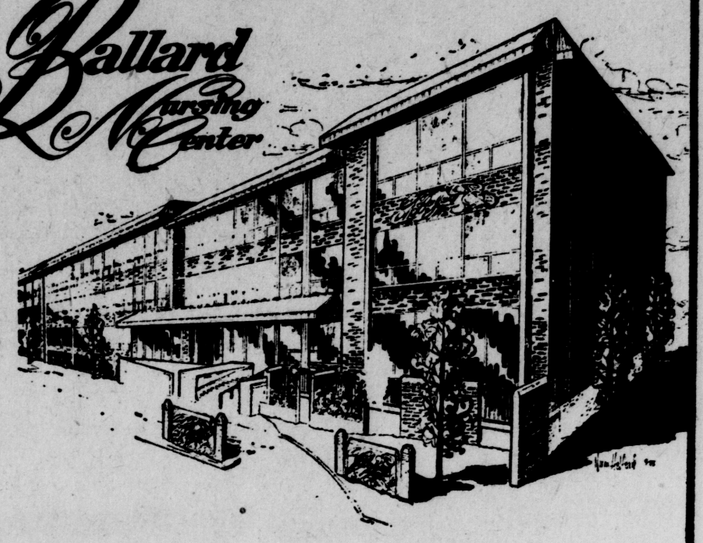

Richard Newland, director from Waukegan, said the Lee King presestation was designed to promote the RTA instead of transportation.

"If that is transportation I'll eat it," he said, pointing to sample advertisements developed on the RTA concept.

"What we are in effect selling, according to their presentation, is RTA, not transportation," he said.

Walker teaches Thompson ropes

Gov. Daniel Walker treated Governor-elect James R. Thompson to a steak sandwich Thursday and showed him the ropes of Illinois government. The two met for 90 minutes in the executive mansion and both predicted afterward the transition from a Democratic to a Republican administration in January will be smooth. Thompson said his campaign manager, James Fletcher, and John W. McCarter, who also is to be part of his administration, will meet Friday with William Goldberg and Nancy Shlaes, who will conduct transition activities for Walker.

Formal president vote Dec. 13

President Ford carried Illinois on election day, but the state does not cast its formal ballot for him until Dec. 13. On that day the Illinois secretary of state will gather 26 Republican electors in the state Capitol for the official presidential vote. Under the U.S. Constitution, the citizenry does not directly choose its president; he is picked by a slate of electors which is chosen before election day by each political party that has a place on the ballot. The electors behind the winning presidential candidate in each state cast the offical vote. One of the electors is Sharon Sharp of Arlington Heights, Cook County GOP chairwoman.

Bomb factory found on NW side

The FBI Thursday issued a federal warrant for a Puerto Rican man in connection with the discovery of a "bomb factory" believed to belong to the FALN — a Puerto Rican terrorist group. Chicago police arrested two men after raiding a Northwest Side apartment Wednesday. They found 211 dynamite caps, 50 pounds of explosives and "several bombs already rigged."

The FBI issued a warrant for Carlos Alberto Torres. He was charged in his absence with a federal charge of illegal possession of explosives. The FALN has claimed responsibility for at least a dozen bombings in Chicago in the last two years.

The nurses indicated they would defy the order. The order will be effective at 9:30 a.m. Friday and will remain in effect until 5 p.m. Nov. 18, to give negotiators time to work out a settlement in the strike which began Wednesday.

Mazzone lost his job in August when Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh ordered a departmental reorganization that eliminated the post. Daniel Walker's administration to inject politics into the arson bureau.

ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH
IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT SWINE AND VICTORIA INFLUENZA (FLU) VACCINE

MONOVALENT ☐ ☐ BIVALENT

THE DISEASE

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death for some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have built up adequate protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in the past 45 years. You may or may not have adequate protection against Victoria flu, although many Americans had this flu last winter. It was responsible for over 12,000 deaths.

THE VACCINE

Two vaccines are being made available: One will protect against swine flu only (monovalent), and one will protect against both swine and Victoria flu (bivalent). Bivalent vaccine is available only for the elderly and for persons with serious chronic diseases.

One shot will protect most people from swine flu during the next flu season (and in the case of the bivalent vaccine, from Victoria flu as well); however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under age 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

POSSIBLE VACCINE SIDE EFFECTS

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

SPECIAL PRECAUTIONS

As with any vaccine or medication, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions to flu vaccine must be considered. However, there have been no reported deaths from flu vaccine since the early days of vaccine use (1940's). In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- PEOPLE WITH KNOWN ALLERGY TO EGGS SHOULD RECEIVE THE VACCINE ONLY UNDER SPECIAL MEDICAL SUPERVISION.
- PEOPLE WITH FEVER SHOULD DELAY GETTING VACCINATED UNTIL THE FEVER IS GONE.
- PEOPLE UNDER A CERTAIN AGE SHOULD NOT ROUTINELY RECEIVE FLU VACCINE. PLEASE ASK ABOUT AGE LIMITATIONS IF THIS INFORMATION IS NOT ATTACHED.
- PEOPLE WHO HAVE RECEIVED ANOTHER TYPE OF VACCINE IN THE PAST 14 DAYS SHOULD CONSULT A PHYSICIAN BEFORE TAKING THE FLU VACCINE.

If you have any questions about flu or flu vaccine, please ask.

In Prospect Heights Dist. 23

Dec. 11 referendum seen as crucial by McGovern

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Drastic program and staff cuts and substantial increases in class size will be unavoidable in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 if voters do not pass a Dec. 11 referendum, Gerald McGovern, assistant superintendent, said.

Faced with a projected $278,000 deficit and having already borrowed as much as legally allowed, administrators are preparing to make at least a $200,000 cutback for 1977-78 if the referendum fails, McGovern said.

Programs that might be reduced or eliminated are band, elementary music, elementary art, intramural, interscholastic athletics, physical education, junior high Spanish, home economics and industrial arts, a referendum planning committee was told Wednesday.

THE DISTRICT also would have to decrease the number of administrators, classrooms and special teachers and teacher aides it has while increasing class size, officials said.

"We're a small district that has managed to stretch its resources to build a well-balanced program, but we'll lose the balance without the referendum," McGovern said. "A lot of people have worked very hard to build up the program and I would hate to see it dismantled."

Music, art and athletic programs are not "frills or extras," but integral parts of a comprehensive educational curriculum, he said.

"WE HAVE A GOOD basics program plus, but if we strip it down we won't have anything left," McGovern said. "Potentially we may not even have a good basics program."

The district's interscholastic athletics program includes girls' and boys' teams in cross country, basketball, wrestling, volleyball, gymnastics and track and field. The junior high school intramural program offers students ice skating, bowling, tennis, golf, flag football and floor hockey.

"If students are just involved in the basic education program they miss out on a lot," Supt. Edward Grodsky said. "We care about kids and that is what it is all about."

PASSAGE OF THE referendum would allow the board of education to increase the tax rate in the education fund only from $1.60 per $100 equalized assessed valuation to $2.20 per $100. There has been no tax rate increase since 1964.

The 60-cent increase in the education fund tax rate would be levied gradually over six years, James Hendren, business manager, said. The over-all tax rate would not increase from $2.51 per $100 equalized assessed valuation because the tax rate in the bond and interest fund would drop as bonds are retired and as the board raised the education fund rate, he said.

Hendren said it will be 1982 before the education fund tax rate reaches $2.20 per $100 and annually brings in the additional $300,000 officials are awaiting.

EVEN AT THAT, the financial problems which have been plaguing the district for the past decade still would not be solved. The additional revenue would not be sufficient to match projected deficits and some program cuts still might be necessary, McGovern said.

Although not a panacea, passage of the referendum would postpone the need to make the more than $200,000 in program and staff cuts already being considered by administrators, he said.

"It will at least buy time until changes in state formulas, reductions in inflationary costs or other improvements offer additional hope," McGovern said. "It's a major step in holding program quality at at least a significantly better level than could otherwise be hoped for."

WITH THE BOARD having made $110,000 in cuts last April before approving a $2.62 million budget, the district has no "excess baggage" to eliminate.

The average junior high school class has about 29 students while the average elementary school class has 27.7 students, McGovern said.

"We have some first grade classes with 33 students in them and that's no way for a kid to start school," he said.

The district's administrative staff consists of one principal per school, a part time assistant principal at MacArthur Junior High School, a superintendent, an assistant superintendent and a business manager.

"We're scraping the bottom of the barrel and we can't take care of the students we have without community support of the referendum," McGovern said.

Swine flu shots for elderly, ill set

Township Senior Citizens Program will give shots from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Nov. 8, 12, 15, 17, 19 and 22 at the Mount Prospect community center, 600 See-Gwun Ave. Appointments for this clinic should be made by calling 398-4567.

Swine flu vaccination clinics for the majority of the population, ages 18 to 60, will not open in the Northwest suburbs for another week.

Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, will sponsor the area's only swine flu inoculation program for high-risk children, ages 3-17.

The children will receive two shots. The first shot will be given Nov. 20 and a followup injection will be Dec. 18.

ELIGIBLE CHILDREN, accompanied by one parent or guardian and certified as high risk by their doctors, should attend both sessions to receive maximum protection against the swine and Victoria flus.

High-risk children include those with heart and kidney conditions, metabolic diseases such as diabetes and respiratory illnesses.

A child and parent should enter through the doctors' door at the north (Kirchoff Road) side of the hospital according to the following time schedule:

Last names beginning A through E from 7 to 9 a.m.; F through J, 9 to 11 a.m.; K through P, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Q through T, 1 to 3 p.m.; and U through Z, 3 to 5 p.m.

Questions about a child's eligibility for swine flu vaccination should be directed to the child's doctor, a hospital spokesman said.

ANYONE WHO is allergic to eggs, who has a fever or has had any other vaccination within the past two weeks should not get the swine flu shot.

Children under age 18 who are not considered high risk because of a chronic illness will not receive flu shots.

Senior citizens over 60, chronically ill adults and high-risk children will be given a bivalent flu vaccine that will immunize them against swine and Victoria influenzas. The rest of the population, between 18 and 60, will receive monovalent vaccine that will protect them against swine flu only.

There is no residency requirement for any of the clinics and all of the shots are free.

Clerk stamps 'cancel' on postal career

Almost 20 years ago Lillian Bouffard applied for a part-time job at the Arlington Heights Post Office. She never got it.

Instead, she was offered a full-time position as postal clerk, a job from which she is retiring today.

"Back then I never thought I'd be working here 19 years and five months before I quit," she said. "But I'm glad I did."

A lot has changed in those years, she said, including the price of a stamp, which was three cents when she first started.

But, she said, people are the same — always in a hurry.

"I have met a lot of nice people here over the years," Mrs. Bouffard said. Some of them have become so accustomed to seeing her stand behind the first clerk's window that they address her by name.

Working at the post office also sparked her interest in a hobby—collecting stamps.

The volume of mail and number of customers have increased substantially since 1957, along with the village population, Mrs. Bouffard said.

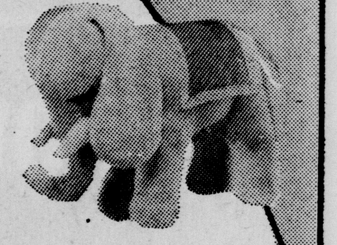

She has made no retirement plans, except to stay at home in Barrington and "be a housewife."

"It will be quite a change, not coming in to work every day," she said. "I'm looking forward to retiring, but I'll miss selling stamps and helping people."

owners hold on to their property.

"EVERYBODY recognizes that as land becomes more scarce the price will go up," he said. "If the owners don't need the money now and would rather give it to their children, they might hold on to the land for 10 years, when it could be worth twice as much as today."

Even those who have sold to developers retain an emotional attachment to their land and regret the inevitable gobbling up of vacant spaces and farms.

Mrs. Charles C. Roehl of Prospect Heights, who sold 20 acres to a builder three years ago, said of her part in area development, "I don't like to see land disappear, but I guess you can't stop progress."

Despite the dwindling amount of undeveloped land in the village and in unincorporated areas surrounding it, Kesler and his staff have drawn up a comprehensive plan including almost 2,000 acres they hope will be built on and incorporated by the year 2,000.

HIS PROJECTIONS WOULD extend the village north to Checker Road, west past Ill. Rte. 53, south past Ill. Rte. 90 and east to Elmhurst Road.

John Best, village engineer for 17 years, is another municipal official who has watched local development with interest.

"Less than 20 years ago Arlington Heights was almost all farm land, except from Thomas Avenue to Central Road," he said.

"In the past, there have been large annexations resulting in huge profits for their owners and many subdivisions," he said, "but I'm afraid the days of the farmer-turned-millionaire are just about gone in Arlington Heights."

Credit card case delayed until Nov. 15

A pretrial hearing for an Arlington Heights couple accused of using credit cards to bilk 11 companies out of $150,000 was continued Thursday to Nov. 15 in U.S. District Court.

U.S. District Judge Thomas McQueen in hicago granted the continuance for Donald E. Davis, 45, of 1034 S. Pine St., and his wife Carol, 27. Davis has been charged with 18 counts of mail fraud, while Mrs. Davis has been charged with 19 counts.

The couple allegedly obtained at least 20 credit cards under aliases from 11 firms, including Marshall Field & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., BankAmericard and several oil companies. The scheme allegedly began in September 1972. Davis was arrested Jan. 30.

The couple has pleaded innocent.

State politicians on Carter team?

by STEVE BROWN

While President-elect Jimmy Carter and his running mate Walter F. Mondale are sitting in Plains discussing the transition, the names of Illinoisans who might serve in the administration already are beginning to find their way to Washington and Georgia.

Several knowledgeable figures, active in both the Carter campaign and Democratic politics in Illinois, said recommendations are in the mail.

They discussed the list, but declined to comment for attribution because they preferred their choices remain confidential. They also did not want to anger anyone they may have left out.

HIGH ON THE list are the names of unsuccessful Illinois politicians who might be looking for government work before the next election.

Gov. Daniel Walker's name was mentioned frequently as a person who might find himself in the Carter cabinet, but he will not get a unanimous endorsement from those in Illinois who are making the recommendations.

Walker has said in recent days that he would not take an administration job because of the 1978 Illinois elections. He continues to let the media and politicians speculate on whether he will make another bid for the governorship in two years.

CHICAGO attorney Alex Seith also seems to be high on the list of Illinoisans who might go to Washington. Seith is active in the prestigious Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and vice chairman of the Democratic party's foreign relations committee.

Seith won't speculate on the future, but he leaves Tuesday on a fact-finding mission to five European capitals after meeting today with Carter's foreign policy advisers in Washington.

While Seith will not be Carter's spokesman on the trip, he will report to Carter's transition team when he returns. His itinerary takes him to the capitals of the Soviet Union, East Germany, England, France and West Germany.

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, who is waiting for canvass results of votes to determine if he loses his bid to be reelected to the U.S. House, is regarded highly by those making recommendations.

Mikva, an independent Democrat, may be asked to take over the U.S. Attorney's office in Chicago if his efforts are unsuccessful.

MIKVA HEADED the state ethics board for Walker after he lost his first race in the 10th Congressional District in 1972, and he might be inclined to take another government post if the right one came along.

Other unsuccessful politicians are State Sen. President Cecil Partee and Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan who were beaten Tuesday. Their names will be recommended, but it is unlikely that Carter would give them sensitive posts, because he seems bent on keeping his pledge of picking independent people for his administration.

Walker administration figures Mary Lee Leahy, head of the Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services, James Trainor, public aid director and Robert (Pud) Williams, head of the state department of agriculture are on some of the lists. Williams campaigned actively for Carter in a number of states before and after the Democratic National Convention.

There are other Chicagoans and suburbanites from previous Democratic administrations who might be called.

ALAN S. BOYD, Lyndon Johnson's secretary of transportation, and currently the president and chief executive office of Illinois Central-Gulf Industries was mentioned.

Robert Wallace of the Exchange National Bank, in Chicago, headed Illinois Business anad Financial Leaders for Carter might be invited back. He served as an assistant U.S. treasury secretary under John F. Kennedy.

Peter Jones, a lawyer, who worked in fund-raising for Carter and was active in Mondale's abortive presidential campaign, also was mentioned. Jones is counsel for Montgomery Ward's.

Former FCC Chairman Newton Minnow of Glenco also may get a call from Carter.

One Illinoisan who wants no role in the Carter administration is James Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign manger. He said he plans next week to return to his job as editor of the Christian Century magazine and will not seek or accept a government post.

Most observers do not believe the firm offers of administration jobs will begin going out for several weeks, but the consensus is that a number of Illinoisans will be hearing from Carter and his top aides well before the inauguration.

Carter to move 'aggressively'

soever," Carter said.

- Promised to choose members of his White House staff "strictly on merit." He said the staff would not interefere with the operations of the departments. The secretary of agriculture will be "competent" to run his department, and will run it, Carter said.
- Changed his position somewhat on how he would react if the Soviet Union were to invade. Yugoslavia.

In debating Ford, he ruled out sending U.S. troops if the Russians invaded. Thursday night he said that option "is a possibility," but added an invasion is "unlikely," and warned it would constitute "an extremely ser-commendations he used in picking ious breach of peace."

- Said he would not announce any cabinet selections until December and, in making his choices, would follow the same pattern of receiving re-comemendations he usedin picking Mondale.
- Expressed a desire to meet with Ford, other administration figures, congressional leaders and outside experts "within the next few weeks" for a thorough discussion of foreign policy issues.

Carter thanked the American people for their votes and thanked Ford for his offer of cooperation.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Losing extra weight will benefit heart

I have been diagnosed as having "chronic ischemic heart disease with hypertension." I would appreciate your definition of the word "ischemia" and I would like to have any suggestions in regard to the treatment and diet for this disease.

I am 75 years old, a retired lady with a weight of 150 pounds. I am sure this is too much weight for a person who is 5 feet 1.

Presently I am taking Hydrodiuril and Aldomet. Are these two medicines adequate for this heart disease?

Ischemia is a word for inadequate blood flow. The term is now used frequently to indicate there is an obstruction in the coronary arteries to your heart muscle. The obstruction is from the buildup of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

This condition leads to inadequate amounts of oxygen being delivered to the heart muscle and at the same time permits the accumulation of carbon dioxide in the heart cells. It is the common form of heart disease these days.

The Hydrodiuril is to help you eliminate salt and with it excess water from the body. It helps to lower blood pressure in many cases. The Aldomet is a more specific treatment for eleveated blood pressure.

These medicines help your heart indirectly by controlling your blood pressure. The high blood pressure increases the deposits of fatty-cholesterol substances in the arteries and also works the heart harder.

You are absolutely right about your weight. If you can get rid of every last pound of extra fat, you will decrease your blood pressure and the work on your heart.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. If you will follow these diet principles and also cut your calories down until you can lose your excess weight, you can do a lot for yourself. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

If a woman has non-invasive carcinoma in situ of the cervix, would this necessitate the removal of the uterus — the reports showing the uterus is clear?

That's a sticky question. Carcinoma in situ is a relatively benign superficial cancer of the surface of the cervix, sometimes overlapping onto the adjacent walls of the vagina and sometimes extending into the opening of the cervix.

It is usually clearly separated from the normal cells. In some ways it is similar to skin cancer — it grows slowly. The problem is that a fairly high percentage of women with these fairly benign cell changes later develop characteristic invasive cancer of the cervix.

There is no clear cut agreement among gynecologists on the proper treatment. And more importantly, no one answer will fit all cases. With sufficient biopsies or removal of a conical section the doctor can be more certain there are no hidden areas of invasive cancer.

The age of the patient and desire to have additional children are also a consideration. If the changes are minimal and easily removed, a young woman may be justified in not undergoing a hysterectomy until later, but she must be carefully supervised. An older woman, particularly if there is evidence of other disease in the uterus as well, is probably better off to have a complete hysterectomy.

Loosen lime deposit with vinegar solution

Dear Dorothy: How does one get the crusty sediment buildup out of a tea kettle? And is there anything that will keep this heavy mineral deposit from collecting?—Mrs. E. R. Lien

Unless it's an unusually heavy buildup, the deposit ought to come out by boiling a solution of half a cup of vinegar to a pot of water. Gently does it. The lime ought to come out in chunks. Then rinse well. Some say keeping an oyster shell, a flat stone or a couple of marbles in the kettle will stop the buildup — that the lime collects on these things. Tried it once, using agates and glassies. The agates picked up a mineral coating, the glassies remained pristine.

Dear Dorothy: Suddenly some of my son's T-shirts have come up with tiny holes. A neighbor said they look like bleach holes, but I haven't been using bleach for a couple of months, at least. Any idea what these holes might be?—Maryanne Priest

Only thing that suggests itself is that this might be old bleach damage. Sometimes it takes a while for weakened material to show the effects.

Dear Dorothy: This is for the information of the reader who wanted to know why gelatin wouldn't jell when she used fresh pineapple. My book on gelatins says there is an enzyme in fresh or frozen pineapple, figs, mangos and papayas — or in a blend of frozen fruit juices which contain these fruits — that will keep gelatin from setting.—Catherine Ratliff

Dear Dorothy: If an avocado is ripe enough to eat and you don't plan on eating home for a few days, can it be refrigerated?—Linda Santry

Yes.

Kissinger assures foreigners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Thursday told all diplomatic posts to inform foreign nations that they need feel no concern "that we might fail to meet our commitments."

In a message designed to assure a smooth transition, Kissinger said:

"The foreign policy of the United States is a nonpartisan enterprise . . . all foreign governments should be aware that this administration will, in the time remaining to it, continue to support America's friends and resist its adversaries.

Kissinger appointed Lawrence Eagleburger, deputy undersecretary of state for management, to head a unit to coordinate with President-elect Jimmy Carter's transition team.

Henry A. Kissinger

HE TOLD THE diplomats it would be a disservice to the president-elect and the United States "to speculate to foreign governments about the policies of the new administration."

Nevertheless, if campaign oratory foreshadows foreign policy, Jimmy Carter will keep the United States a strong Pacific power and improve relations with China while preserving links with Taiwan.

The President-elect also would refuse diplomatic recognition to Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia until he gets a full accounting of Americans missing in action — sending presidential envoys there if necessary to obtain it.

Carter outlined his foreign policy during his Oct. 6 debate with President Ford in San Francisco. It remains the best indication of what foreign policy will be in his administration.

CARTER HAS called the 1972 Soviet grain sale "terrible" and said President Ford had to impose three grain export embargos later to dampen the inflationary effect of the 1972 sale on domestic grain prices.

"I would never single out food as a trade embargo item, if I ever decided to impose an embargo because of a crisis in international relationships," Carter said.

On Indochina, he said Ford's failure to send "a Presidential commission" to the three Southeast Asian war theater nations to investigate the MIA problem was "one of the most embarrassing failures of the Ford Administration."

"I also would never formalize relationships with Vietnam," Carter said, "nor permit them to join the United Nations until they've taken this action" in disclosing MIA information.

Carter also said he frowns on dealing with dictatorships and would support human rights causes when dealing with foreign nations.

Hospitals slate tests for diabetes

Northwest suburban hospitals will cooperate in an areawide program of free blood sugar testing during Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 14 to 21.

The tests will be administered by appointment only. They are intended to find the "hidden diabetic" and are not for persons who know they have diabetes.

One out of 20 persons has diabetes or will develop it in his lifetime, according to the American Diabetes Assn. Diabetes develops when the body cannot use up certain foods, especially sugars and starches.

THE MOST COMMON symptoms are excessive thirst, frequent urination, constant hunger, loss of weight, itching, tendency to tire easily, change in vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

Diabetes is a leading cause of blindness and may contribute to various types of heart disease.

An estimated 400,000 Chicago and northern Illinois residents have disbetes, but 60 per cent of the cases remain undetected.

A blood sample is drawn from the arm for the blood sugar test. Persons who make an appointment will be told to eat a prescribed meal before coming in for the blood test.

AT ALEXIAN BROTHERS Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, blood sugar tests will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Nov. 15 to 20, and from 7 to 9 p.m., Nov. 15 to 19...

Anyone who is not a known diabetic can make an appointment by calling 437-5500, ext. 588. Instructions will be mailed to those persons. Results will be sent to those tested and to their physicians if the results are abnormal.

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, will give tests from 10 a.m. to noon and from 7 to 9 p.m., Nov. 15 to 19. To make an appointment at Holy Family, persons should call 297-1800, ext. 1900.

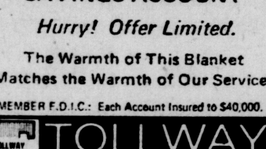

Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, will give tests from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Nov. 15 to 17, from noon to 5 p.m. Nov. 16 to 18 and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 19 to 20. Persons should call 259-1000 for an appointment.

PERSONS WHO WANT to get blood sugar tests at Lutheran General Hospital should make an appointment next week by calling 696-5820 between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tests will be administered during Nov. 14 to 20.

In addition, Family Drug Centers in the area will conduct free diabetes blood tests Nov. 13 using a new detection unit called the Ames Reflectance Meter, that gives an instant readout and takes about one minute.

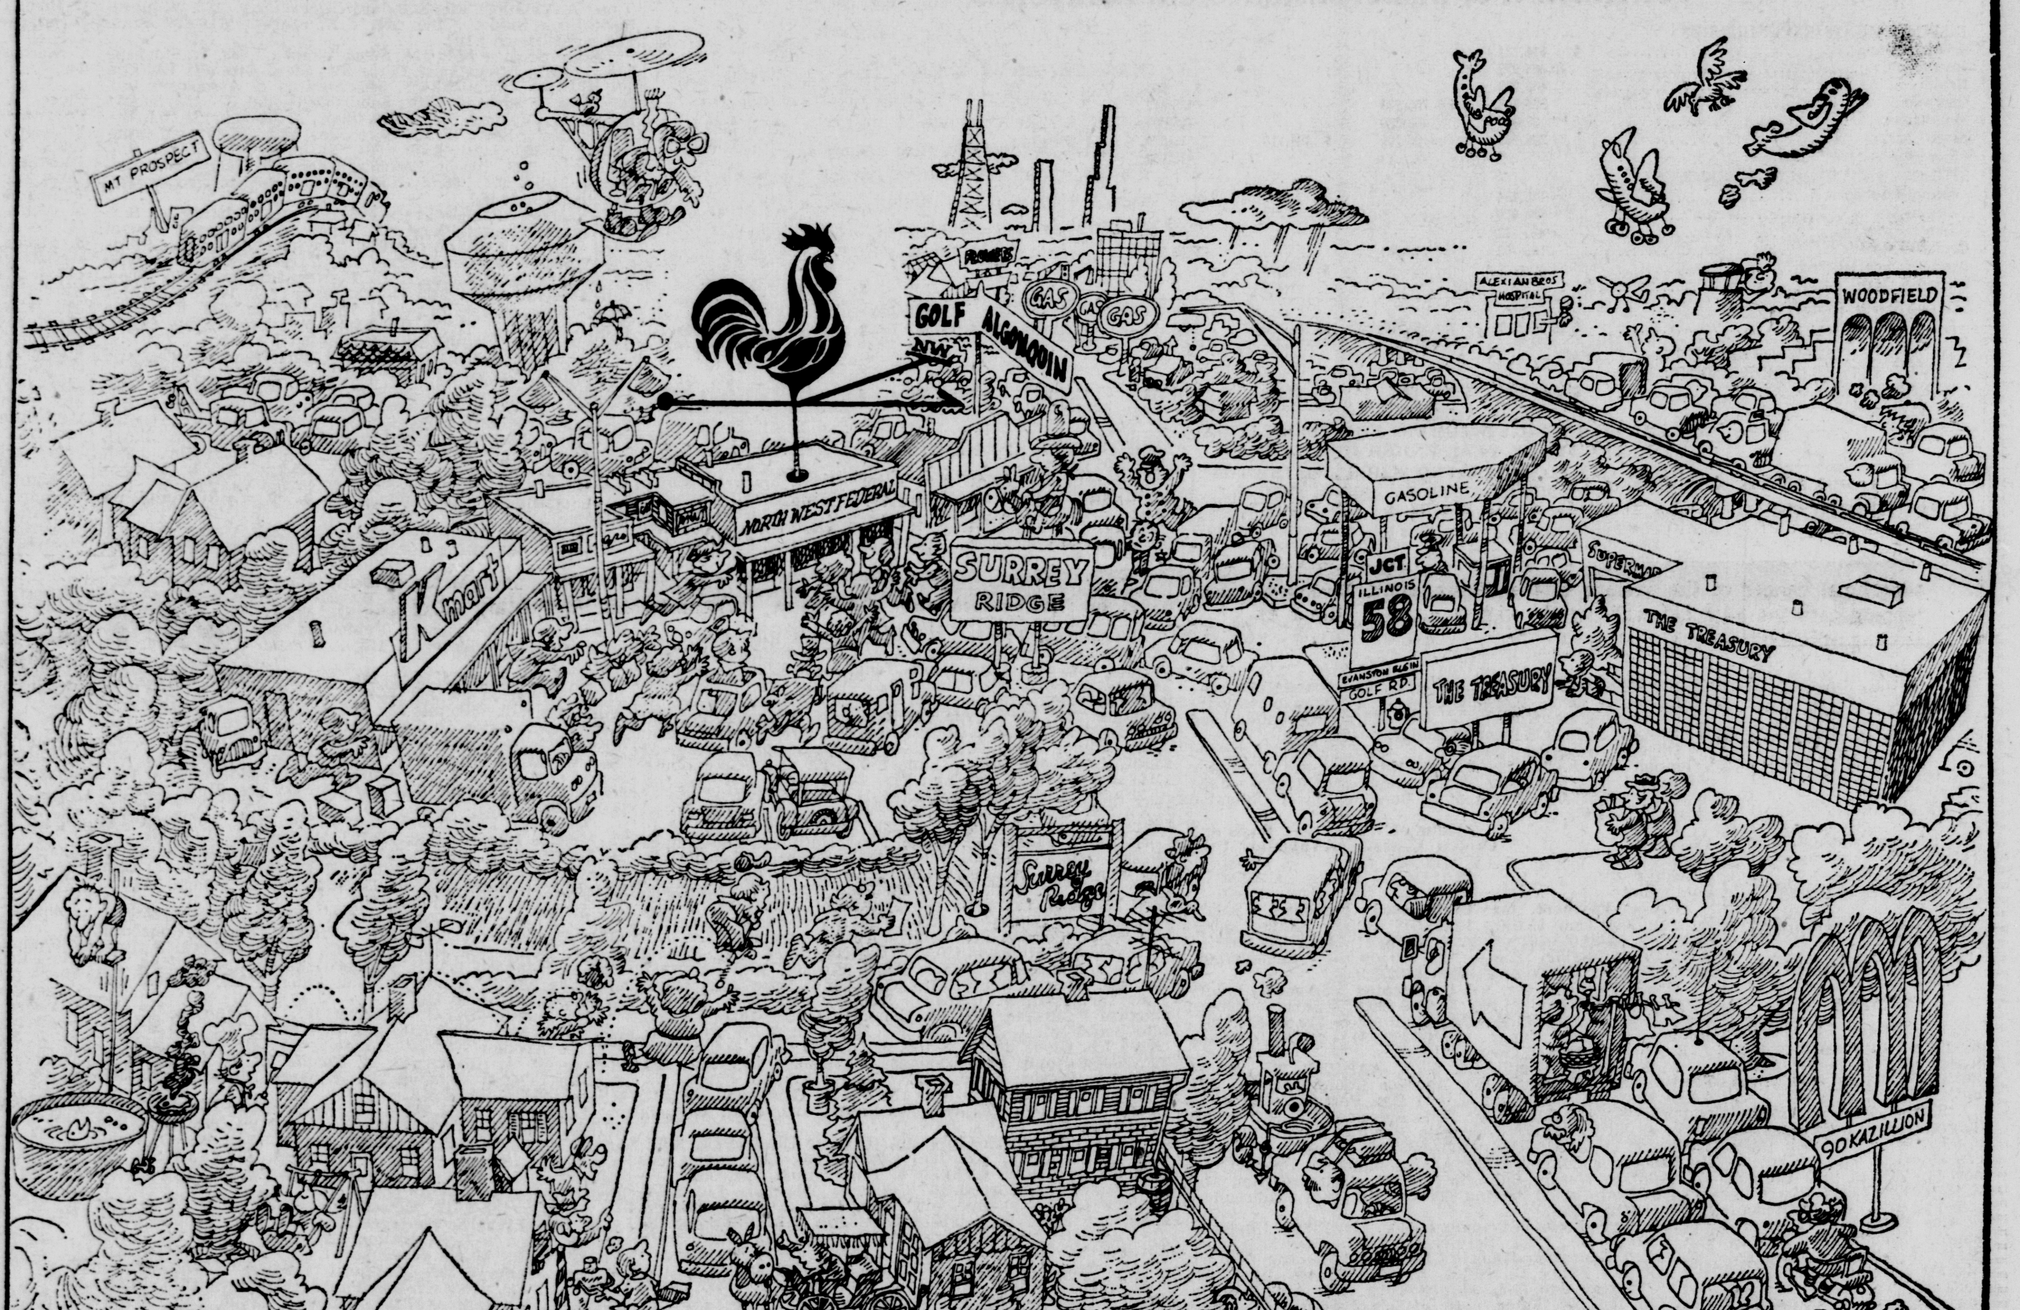

Pharmacies giving the test are Ballard Pharmacy, Des Plaines; Des Plaines Pharmacy, Des Plaines; Golf Village Drugs, Mount Prospect; Mark Drug Pharmacies, in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling; Nisson Pharmacy, Des Plaines; Olsen Drug and Liquor, Mount Prospect; Plaza Pharmacy, Palatine; and Weathersfield Pharmacy, Schaumburg.

Earp's ashes buried among the respectable

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

COLMA, Calif. — The legend of Wyatt Earp doesn't jibe with the simple letters notched in the dark marble stone, which is tilted slightly off the ground and encased in concrete so that nobody will steal it.

Underneath it lie the ashes of the notorious gunslinger of the Old West — in a Jewish cemetery on a hillside in the fog belt just south of San Francisco.

"Wyatt Earp
1848-1929
Josephine Earp
1861-1944"

Wyatt Earp, who along with hs brothers Morgan and Virgil and consumptive Doc Holliday shot it out with the Clanton gang at the O.K. Corral (Oct. 26, 1881), should — to fit history — be buried in some place like Tombstone or Deadwood or Dodge City.

BUT HERE ON this sunny Indian summer day — in the well-tended Hills of Eternity cemetery — you find out that Wyatt Earp lived to the ripe old age of 81 and died with his boots off, and that for the ages he resposes in the company of the Marcus family, his Jewish in-laws.

Maury Fitzgerald, a pipe-smoking English professor at the College of San Mateo, led this pilgrimage to the grave of Wyatt Berry Stapp Earp, who was a buffalo hunter, rode shotgun on a stage, was an assistant marshal and blasted and gambled his way through the silver and gold camps of Arizona, Colorado and Alaska before finding sedateness and respectability with Josephine Sarah Marcus, whom he married in 1897.

Earp died in Los Angeles. He was cremated and the ashes later transferred to the Marcus family plot here. The headstone, weighing more than a quarter of a ton was stolen a couple of times — and once found in some bushes off nearby Skyline Drive — before it was sealed in cement.

THE CURIOUS still wander by. A history teacher from southern California happens along, with his teen-aged sons, and snaps a picture with an Instamatic.

"We get a few every week," says Don Kuczynski, the caretaker, a refugee from Poland and the only Jew in Cemetery Workers Local 265.

Fitzgerald, who brought us here, has more than a pedantic interest in grave sites, too. He is executive secretrary-treasurer of the union, which has 450 members stretched out from San Jose to Antioch. Maury has held the job for 17 years while dispensing syntax and grammar to junior college students.

HE IS THE ONLY union leader who lives in Hillsborough, a swank suburb where Bing Crosby is his near neighbor. But Maury's working domain is Colma, a unique community on the Peninsula ridge below San Francisco. Graves are its main business (there are no active cemeteries in the city). A hundred yards from Wyatt Earp's urn stands the crypt of William Randolph Hearst, the grandfather of Patty, the immensely influential newspaper tycoon who was the model for "Citizen Kane." He lies in adjoining Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

Altogether there are 12 cemeteries in Colma. Fitzgerald, a San Francisco native, picked up spare cash here — $2 a day — digging graves as a 15-year-old high school kid.

"Grave digging isn't what is used to be," he admits. "Forty per cent of our business is now in cremation — except for the orthodox Jewish, Greek and Catholic cemeteries."

THESE HUGE ornate headstones that have traditionally cluttered cemeteries are now out, too. Modest marble monuments with simple lines and simple designations are the fashion.

So Wyatt Earp in his final resting place, noted by a plain marker, fits right in with his neighbors. Little did they realize they'd achieve immortality of a sort by reposing near the man who won the Gunfight at the O.K. Corral.

Are cram courses worth the cash?

guarantee a score increase.

"The investigation will look at us, but I don't feel it will affect us," Smith said. "Our ads don't make any claims." He said the FTC probe is more likely to look at some New York companies which promise a 200-point increase on the SATs "or your money back."

THE COLLEGE ENTRANCE Examination Board, which administers the SAT, does not recommend coaching schools. A two-week crash course will not affect the performance on the test, a board spokesman said.

"If you get claims from people who run the courses that say 'it works, it works,' make them come up with data, not just rhetoric," the spokesman said.

Most high school officials contacted in the Northwest suburbs say they do not know any students who are enrolled in these private prep courses.

"If a student was to ask me if it was beneficial to take one of those courses, I'd probably tell them no," said Don Wharton, director of pupil personnel services at Palatine High School.

COLLEGE ADMISSIONS officers, who use SATs and ACTs as a factor in accepting students to their schools, say the courses may acquaint students with the type of question they will find on the test, but they don't believe the cram courses serve a valuable purpose in improving scores.

William Price, director of admissions and records at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus, said he would not advocate teaching in preparation for the entrance tests.

"We're not interested in just having people cram and get a test score so they can get into here, and then fail once they get in," Price said. "We'd much rather have someone who would do better without the course."

Students learn to overcome college entrance test jitters

for these tests.

Some do it outwardly in special courses designed for this task. Other schools are making test preparation a hidden part of the everyday curriculum. And some school officials believe that preparation does no good at all.

Stevenson High School, Prairie View, which serves part of Buffalo Grove, is one of the local high schools conducting a special course called "Reduction of Test Anxiety" to prepare students for college entrance examinations.

"Our program is designed to help students come to grips with the anxiety they might feel when writing the test," said Paul Kern, assistant to the superinendent.

THE COURSE goes over the basics of test-taking: have a sharp pencil, get a good night's sleep and don't rattle candy wrappers during the test, Kern said.

The five-week session also reviews English and math which the students may encounter on the exam. "We provide review time in certain content areas, but not instruction," Kern said, emphasizing the course is not trying to make up for subjects which are not covered in class.

At Fremd High School in Palatine a similar course is offered each spring before juniors take the SATs. The English and counseling departments hold after-school seminars explaining the mechanics of test-taking and giving students sample SAT questions.

English classes also concentrate on word usage and vocabulary about a month before the tests.

Fremd students attending the seminar say that it makes them feel more confident about tests, according to Jerry Cairns, director of pupil personnel services.

While some schools do not make preparation for the SATs or ACTs a regular part of the curriculum, they do offer help through their counseling departments or learning resource centers.

JIM DeNOMA, a guidance counselor at Rolling Meadows High School, said students are told about study materials available in bookstores, with titles such as "How to Pass College Admissions Tests." These books contain sample questions so "students have an idea of what the test questions are like," DeNoma said.

Although many students say they feel better going into the tests knowing what to expect, educators still dispute whether preparation should be allowed for these tests.

A College Entrance Examination Board spokesman said preparation "doesn't help that much and a student would be better off studying the basic high school curriculum."

Some local school officials agree with the College Board. "There is no course that can be taught for the SAT or ACT," said James Killam, a guidance counselor at Maine West High School, Des Plaines.

"It's kind of like an IQ test — there's no way you can study for it," he said.

KEITH SHELTON, High School Dist. 211 assistant superintendent for special services, said the areas covered on the exams should be part of the normal English curriculum. "Why should you run a special course for it?" Shelton asked.

Most of the school officials agree that even if you can't give a crash course on test contents, it is possible to help students with test-taking techniques — the main goal of the Fremd and Stevenson seminars.

"You ought to be warmed up," said Ron Rosenthal, a counselor at Arlington High School, Arlington Heights. "I don't think you can study for the test, but you can be warmed up and ready to go when you take the test."

Many colleges use SAT, ACT results

SATs and ACTs are two standardized tests offered nataionally for use in admitting high school seniors to college.

The tests are intended to be indicators of a student's ability to handle college work — supposedly measures of aptitude, rather than past achievement.

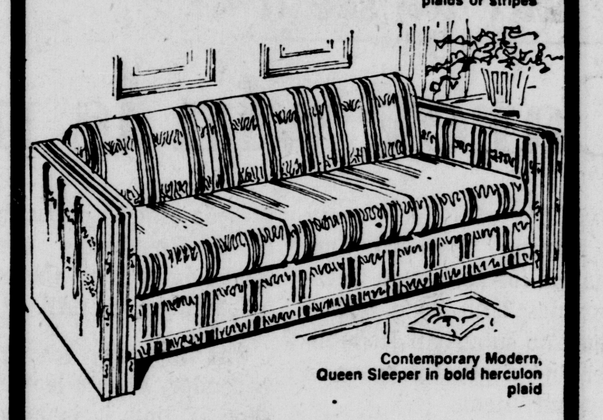

The SAT, administered by the College Entrance Examination Board, is scored on a 220-to-800 scale. There are two sections to the test: math and verbal.

ACT, offered by the American College Testing Program, is used by many Midwestern state universities as one admission criteria. The test is scored on a scale ranging from 1 to 36. English, math, social studies and natural science are covered on the ACT.

The way we see it

Carey win is more than a victory

The victory of Cook County State's Attorney Bernard Carey in his bid for reelection Tuesday provides both hope and a challenge for suburban Republicans seeking a greater voice in county government.

In addition, the victory means Carey has an opportunity for another four years to prove that a Republican in that key office can provide both improved law enforcement and an effective counterforce against Democratic Party domination of the county.

For Republicans, Cary's victory is a clear indication that a GOP candidate can win a county-wide office without the benefit of a Republican presidential landslide such as the one which helped Carey in 1972.

The important lesson the party leaders should learn from the race is that it is necessary to field first-rate candidates in county races if there is to be a realistic chance for the GOP.

For too long, suburban Republicans have accepted the idea they are doomed to lose county-wide races and as a result too often have slated weak candidates for those posts.

Carey has clearly shown that a well run campaign by a credible candidate who offers a clear alternative to the traditional Democratic forces which have dominated the county can win by carrying the suburbs and making inroads into the city vote.

Carey's narrow victory, coming along with the clear and unquestionable defeat of the rest of the GOP's county ticket, also proves that the Democratic machine can continue domination of the county when it is not seriously challenged.

The challenge facing suburban Republicans as they continue to try to shake the Democratic Party's hold on county government is to find more candidates as effective as Carey in attracting city as well as suburban voters.

During the next four years, Carey faces an additional challenge. Because of the victory of President-elect Jimmy Carter, he will no longer be able to count on the vigorous help of a U.S. Attorney in handling Cook County political corruption prosecutions. His own prosecutions may have to stand on their own, unaided by federal authorities.

This will at once make Carey's duty more difficult and give him an opportunity to build a more substantive record than he had in his first term. Hopefully, Carey will rise to that challenge.

Golterman faces big job in highway position

Richard H. Golterman of Inverness has the honor this week of becoming one of the few persons ever chosen by both a Republican and a Democrat to run a major county department.

The honor is not dulled by the fact that the department Golterman will head, the Cook County Highway Dept., has been the target of charges of inefficiency and widespread loafing by employes.

Nevertheless, it is a tribute to Golterman, who ran the highway department under Republican County Board Pres. Richard Ogilvie from 1967 to 1969, that County Board Pres. George W. Dunne has now selected him to straighten out the problems in the highway department.

Dunne, a Democrat, already has disciplined 44 highway department employes and fired four supervisors as a result of his own investigation into Better Government Association charges of highway employe loafing.

Golterman has pledged to continue that investigation and to provide better leadership to the department to discourage a recurrence.

In addition, Golterman has made a proposal to improve traffic conditions on area expressways which clearly deserves further study.

Golterman said he wants to discuss with trucking associations the idea of restricting truck traffic on the expressways to one or two lanes with specially posted speeds.

There are some possible problems with such a proposal, but the idea also has potential for clearing up some of the aggravations of metropolitan area driving.

That proposal and Golterman's pledge to improve the highway department mark him as a good choice to ensure that the taxpayers and motorists of Cook County get a fair shake.

Reader has trouble understanding ways of the Harper College board

When I stacked the papers for disposal today, the Oct. 15 edition of The Herald came out and my eye caught a set of quotation marks. The enclosure was a puddle of educationalese. I glanced at the caption. It read "Harper asks plans for second campus" and I remembered assuming that was the entire story.

I should have known better. When you are dealing with Harper Junior College (of astrology, among other things) you should study the fine print. In general, the whole story was this: Harper acquired land in Buffalo Grove area for a new campus, and the college board decided that they should plan ahead before hurling buildings onto it.

This profoundly difficult decision wasn't made lightly, and the problem wasn't even faced at all until President Lahti and four board members returned from a California junket, ostensibly to study an equally difficult question. Would this already purchased land in their midst furnish a more convenient campus for residents of Wheeling Township than a campus 10 or 15 miles farther away?

When a bunch of Congressmen and their wives, or whatever, fly off to distant places for fun and games at the taxpayers' expense, they always feel constrained to issue a cover story. "We were studying the Eskimo problem in Paris." Anything will do, but there must be some pretense.

TRUE TO THIS fine political tradition, the five people from Harper had a cover story: the aforementioned puddle of words between quotes.

"The visit to the California colleges reinforced the understanding of the board members that the proximity of educational opportunities is directly related to the service offered and the use made of the college."

Now this is astounding. The group contained at least one professional educationist — Lahti. He would never expand "closer is handier" into a turgid paragraph. He would have evaporated it into an unfathomable 25-page report. Or a doctoral dissertation. No one would have known anything. But they assigned the task to a novice (albeit a promising one) who tortuously and unconsciously told the truth.

They certainly must feel secure in their joyous reveling in all that funny money.

Medicare fees: Who is the loser?

by DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some time ago an elderly woman walked into physician Allan Bruckheim's office in Harrison, N.Y., not dreaming her case later would be discussed in Congress.

It was not her medical condition that eventually came to the attention of congressmen. It was a matter of arithmetic of concern to millions of Americans who receive benefits under Medicare, the federal government's $22-billion-a-year health program for the elderly.

Dr. Bruckheim's normal fee for an office visit was $10. Medicare allowed him a "reasonable" fee, based on a formula taking into account rates charged during the previous year by him and other physicians in the area. In this case it was $8.

Of that amount, Medicare would pay 80 per cent, or $6.40, and the patient was to pay 20 per cent, or $1.60. In due course, the doctor received $6.40 from the federal taxpayers, and the patient was notified that he had been paid that amount.

Meanwhile, the doctor billed the patient for her $1.60 share.

She replied "Wait a minute. My bill says the cost was $1.60. You were paid $6.40. So you have already been overpaid. You owe me — or somebody $4.80."

Dr. Bruckheim, who now practices in Yonkers, N.Y., told the House Ways and Means subcommittee on health about the incident during a recent hearing in which he spoke for the American Academy of Family Physicians.

It illustrates two things about that portion of Medicare that pays for services to the elderly by private physicians:

- Doctors say they aren't being paid enough for their services.
- Patients say the fee system is confusing, and they sometimes suspect they are paying too much.

According to a "background" report by the subcommittee staff, the problem is a tangled one.

Physicians' fees have been rising faster than non-medical consumer prices — 60 per cent faster between 1966, the year before Medicare began, and 1971.

In an effort to keep the taxpayers' cost of Medicare from rising out of sight, Congress and the government began in 1972 putting various brakes on how fast the "reasonable" fee allowed a physician under this method of Medicare payment can increase year by year, holding it below the going rate.

This has the American Medical Association up in arms. It testified that Congress should approve reimbursement for doctors "more nearly reflective of usual and customary chages."

However, the method of payment used between Dr. Bruckheim and his patient — technically known as the "assignment" system — is only one method open to a doctor under present law.

He can elect to directly bill the patient and let the patient collect from Medicare. In this case, the doctor can charge the patient whatever the traffic will bear. The patient gets back the "reasonable" fee from Medicare and makes up the difference.

The law leaves the choice between the two systems entirely to the physician, allowing him to use one for some patients, the other for others and even to switch back and forth between the systems over several visits by the same patient.

According to the subcommittee, the assignment system was used in 61 per cent of cases in 1969 but only 50 per cent in the first half of this year.

In other words, as a result of holding down the "reasonable" fee, doctors increasingly are using the direct billing method, which allows them to collect more, and Medicare patients are paying more of the cost out of their own pockets.

The subcommittee is considering many proposals.

One is to abolish direct billing and require participating doctors to stick to the assignment system. A possible drawback, the subcommittee notes, is that physicians might refuse to participate.

Another proposal is to have Medicare pay higher "reasonable" fees. But the background report notes that this would raise the taxpayers' cost and might contribute to inflation generally in the field of medicine.

The recently adjourned 94th Congress ran out of time and will hand the problem to the 95th, which convenes in January. A congressional staffer says that since the subcommittee will have new members then, it probably will hold hearings on the matter all over again.

U.S. statistics on poverty fuzzy

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

The U.S. Census Bureau recently said that the number of Americans living in poverty had grown by some 2.5 million from 1974 to 1975. This brings the total number of Americans living in poverty to just under 26 million, or about 12 per cent of our population.

Politicians immediately jumped on this statistic, with each party accusing the other of having brought about the increase. In fact, the main thing that brought about the increase was a change in the amount of annual cash income that defines the poverty level: it was increased from 1974 to 1975 by a few hundred dollars, to $5,500 for a family of four. This flick of a pen brought many into the poverty fold who previously were ineligible.

Now I'm as much against poverty as the next person. I'm also against fuzzy governmental statistics, and misleading governmental programs that shift excessive dollars from the pockets of some persons to the pockets of others. This massive program — call it "eliminating poverty" or "redistributing the wealth" or whatever — is too complex to unravel in this small space. But some sidelong glances at the supposedly shocking news about our growing poverty might be enlightening.

THE POVERTY FIGURES are based on cash income. They don't include a number of subsidies received from the governmental cornucopia, such as food stamps and subsidized housing, which supplements cash income. The cash income that defines the poverty line is based on how much it costs to provide proper nutritional meals to the family, and obviously this will be affected by inflation. Likewise, the food-stamp program is affected by inflation — if not more so. The cost of the food-stamp program to the taxpayer was $4.6 billion in 1975.

The Congressional Budget office estimates that it will be $5.9 billion in 1976. That's an increase of about 28 per cent in one year, while the Consumer Price Index was climbing at about 6 per cent.

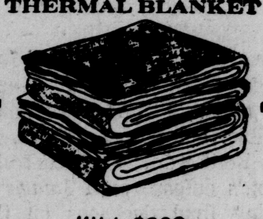

Moreover, the poverty statistics are used in shaping many major governmental programs, such as which cities get how much federal aid for their schools. As poor citizens migrate from one area to another, taking their federal aid allotments with them, they can cause poverty in their old locale just by virtue of leaving. Remaining citizens will have to make up the difference of lost federal aid to the area out of their own pockets.

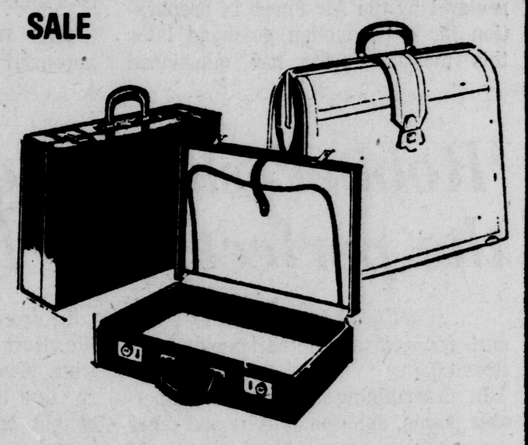

THE FOLLOWING table shows the Congressional Budget office's estimates of certain income-assistance programs for 1976 and 1980. These figures are what it costs the taxpayers.

Aid to Families with Dependant Children	5.8	8.0
Food stamps	5.9	9.4
Housing Subsidies	2.6	6.5
Child Nutrition	2.7	4.1
Medicaid	8.3	12.0
Total	25.3	40.9

This could drive us all into poverty. But that won't be what historians will call it.

Wholesale prices up 0.6% in October

Strong inflationary pressures persisted during October, when the year's biggest surge for industrial goods drove wholesale prices up 0.6 per cent, the Labor Dept. reported Thursday. Industrial prices rose a full 1 per cent — the culmination of a steady five-month trend that spelled trouble ahead for the American consumer. Fuel, power, lumber and auto prices figured heavily in the increase. October's industrial price increase was the largest since October 1975. These prices, considered to be a good barometer of inflationary trends, have risen at a foreboding annual rate of 11 per cent over the past three months. The impact of this trend was eased somewhat in October by a decline in food and farm prices. Farm prices fell 1.2 per cent and food prices 0.7 per cent. Yet some key grocery items — beef, eggs, coffee, fruits and vegetables — continued to climb. Food price declines created the impression that inflation had slowed slightly in the wholesale market during October, compared with the startling jump of 0.9 per cent in September. The Wholesale Price Index stood at 185.2 in October, an increase of 3.5 per cent over the past year. This meant that goods costing $100 in 1967, now cost $185.20 at the wholesale level.

Chrysler, UAW foresee accord

Chrysler Corp. and United Auto Workers union negotiators headed into the final hours of bargaining Thursday confident they could agree on a new contract and avoid a strike by 118,000 U.S. and Canadian workers at 5 p.m. today. "We still have some major problems before us," UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser told reporters. "There are some tough issues, but the nature of the issues is such that it doesn't take some complicted formula to arrive at a settlement. It just takes a yes or a no." Following the four-week walk-out at the Ford Motor Co. to work out the basic industry contract for 730,000 workers in both countries, a Chrysler strike would be unprecedented.

Food price drop only temporary

Average retail food prices during the closing months of the year may sink slightly below summer levels, but consumers can expect another round of "moderate" increases in the first half of 1977, Agriculture Dept. experts say. The predicted decline from summer levels was attributed to lower prices for meat, poultry and some fresh produce items. Officials said this reinforces earlier forecasts that year-end retail food prices will be only 1 per cent to 2 per cent above a year earlier, and that the full year 1976 average will be about 3 per cent higher than 1975 — far smaller than the food inflation rates of 14.5 per cent in 1973 and 1974 and the 8.5 per cent of 1975. Economists added that consumers paid higher food bills this year largely because marketing margins — the costs and profits in handling, processing and retailing food — went up.

1977 Gremlin price cut $253

American Motors Corp. cut the price of its subcompact Gremlin by $253 Thursday in an unusual attempt to lure Americans, apparently unafraid of gasoline prices, back to the small cars they have turned their backs on. AMC Pres. William Luneburg said the move should boost Gremlin sales by 30 per cent. The cut on the 1977 model left it $87 below the 1976 model and made it the lowest-priced U.S.-built car by $5.

Kemper shows income gains

The Kemper Corp. has reported operating income of $20,765,000 or $3.69 a share, for the first nine months of 1976 compared with $15,127,000 or 92 cents a share for the same period in 1975. Operating income for the third quarter was $9,718,000 or $1.72 a share compared with $4,829,000 or 87 cents a share for the third quarter of 1975. Sales for the nine-month period amounted to $478,246,000. The company is based in Long Grove.

Stocks close up 3.91 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street investors drove prices broadly higher Thursday in the heaviest trading in six weeks on the New York Stock Exchange when retailers' sales reports indicated the economy was showing some muscle.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 9.56 points Wednesday in reaction to Jimmy Carter's presidential election, gained 3.91 to 960.44. The blue-chip average had been ahead eight points earlier in the session.

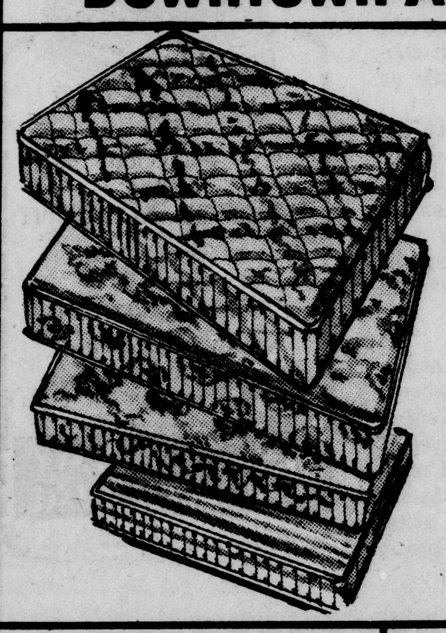

The NYSE common stock index gained 0.32 to 54.70 and the average price of a common share increased 20 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.49 to 102.41.

Advances routed declines, 1,183 to 342, among the 1,866 issues crossing the tape.

The volume of 21,700,000 shares, up from 19,350,000 traded Wednesday, was the heaviest since 24,214,290 changed hands on Sept. 23.

Power shift at Pentagon to go smoothly: Rumsfeld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.s. Defense Sec. Donald H. Rumsfeld pledged Thursday to make the transition at the Pentagon as smooth as possible, but emphaiszed that President Ford would keep control of the nation's defense until January — including final decisions on the 1978 budget.

Rumsfeld indicated the budget to be presented to Congress before Jimmy Carter takes office in January would inevitably go beyond the $120.6 billion previously forecast.

Rumsfeld, holding an unannounced news conference, said he told senior Pentagon officials Ford's desire was for the best transition in history, but that he "will be the President through noon Jan. 20 and has the responsibilities of that office."

"YOU DON'T WANT to have 18 hands on the steering wheel, and there won't be," Rumsfeld said.

Rumsfeld was asked about a number of programs, including the $22.9 billion B-1 bomber project now being reviewd by the Air Force in preparation for a production go-ahead later this month. Carter has questioned

Money for B-1 production is expected to be in the new budget, which would go into effect Oct. 1, 1977. Rumsfeld declined to be specific about those funds but said he talked about the B-1 with Air Force Sec. Thomas C. Reed Thursday.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that the reaities of the strategic nuclear world are such that there needs to be a follow-on to the B-52," he said.

THE DEFENSE budget Congress approved for this fiscal year is $112.7 billion. Ford said last January the 1978 budget would be around $120 billion, but Rumsfeld said that in his view inflation made it inevitable the final total would go beyond that.

The budget process is almost a year old, Rumsfeld said, and the best course for transition was "to close that, announce it and then have that as a starting-off place for the new administration, based on their own view of the world."

Rumsfeld said he would stay on until the inauguration Jan. 20 and that he believed a number of other appointed officials also should be on hand until Carter replacements were available to ensure continuity.

Rumsfeld also indicated he saw little chance of any further arms limitation agreements with the Soviet Union, saying, "A subject of the nature of SALT is almost by definition one that a President must personally engage himself with."

'Robber' shows how to do the perfect store holdup

curb robberies in the nationwide foodstore chain.

In determining the store's vulnerable points, Johnson said he and other researchers — many of whom are exconvicts — "would go out and look at a store with the idea in mind that we are going to rob it, right up to and stopping short of the point when we say, 'Stick 'em up.' "

He cited invitations to robbers: cluttered or messy stores, cash registers out of sight of the street, poor lighting, lone employes, large sums of money, and easy escape routes.

SO REALISTIC are Johnson's inspections that passers-by have called police to report suspicious activity. At a 7-Eleven in San Diego, where the institute's crime deterrent plan was tried first, a patrolman rushed up and arrested Johnson.

George Davis, manager of the 7-Eleven Great Lakes Division, said that since the crime prevention plan has been institutd in San Diego and Houston, stores there have expereinced a 35 per cent decline in robberies.

Robberies of Chicago area 7-Eleven stores are down 35 per cent this year, Davis said. However, the institute's plan still will be adopted for the Windy City, he said.

Reported declines in robberies notwithstanding, 7-Eleven stores in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg have been targets of six holdups since January. In each robbery, bandits have taken as little as $25 and as much as $200.

THE HOLDUPS followed much the same scenario Johnson played out Thursday. Johnson said he finally decided to get out of the profession because, "As a robber, the hours were great, the money wasn't bad but the retirement system will damn near kill you."

Johnson, author of the book, "Too Dangerous to be at Large," and a regular guest on television talk shows, won his parole in 1968 from Folsum Prison in California. He had served 16 years of a life sentence at the maximum security prison near Sacramento — five of those years in solitary confinement following an escape in 1958.

Johnson today lives a respectable life. He has married since his release from prison. He and his wife, Sandra, live in a military surplus bus he bought and converted into a $40,000 home on wheels. The Johnsons park their home wherever whim takes them in the San Diego area.

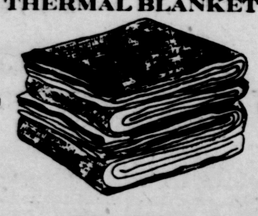

JOHNSON NOW travels around the country, implementing the seven-point crime prevention plan he and the institute have devised for 7-Eleven:

- Keep the store clean.
- Keep windows uncluttered and cash registers clearly visible from the street.
- Be alert for suspicious activity, and keep areas outside the store well-lighted.
- Watch persons inside the store.
- Keep as little cash in the register as possible.
- Arrange with a nearby business to watch each other's property and to notify the police of suspicious activity.

Johnson complains, "It's been the hardware, the 'catch 'em and kill 'em,' that gets all the attention."

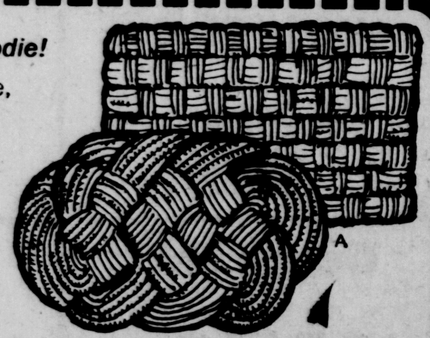

But to discourage would-be criminals, "We're trying to get the word out that 7-Elevens are not cool places to rob," Johnson said.

YOU'LL SEE STRAW hats and rattan canes in Arlington Park Theatre's production of "Rodgers and Hart: A Musical Celebration," but there's also plenty of elbow grease and tired throats according to costars Constance Towers and John Gavin. The musical plays through Nov. 14.

Musical's fun but more work than it looks

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

If actors have been getting a bad rap lately, you can't blame the husband and wife team of John Gavin and Constance Towers.

The movie star and singer/actress, who are starring together in Arlington Park Theatre's "Rodgers and Hart: A Musical Celebration," cringe in unison at the recent, over-publicized debut of instant actress Elizabeth Ray.

Towers talked about training for the Arlington production "just like a fighter trains for the ring," and her husband pitched in with complaints about his total exhaustion after a musical performance.

And when asked what the couple plan to do during their stay in the Windy City, shopping treks and gala dinners don't enter the picture. Instead, Gavin muttered something about collapsing after opening night.

"It always amazes me that people don't realize how much work a musical involves," said Towers, looking a bit shopworn after tackling rush-hour traffic on top of a full day of interviews.

"And it does bother me when you walk into a hotel and someone says, 'Oh, it's one of those,' " she added with a wry grin.

Towers has had her share of grueling rehearsals; she's held leading roles in several Broadway musicals and just completed a tour of "The King and I" with Yul Brynner. But while Towers is an old pro at leaving car heaters off to avoid hoarseness and lying low 'til noon to conserve energy, her husband is a relative newcomer to musical theater.

THOUGH GAVIN starred in the recent Broadway musical "Seesaw," most of his efforts ("Psycho," "Back Street" and "The Madwoman of Chaillot" among them) have been in a dramatic vein. Which type of theater is more strenuous?

"Musical theater requires a great deal of an actor because you're giving 100 per cent almost every minute," he said. "A musical takes a different kind of energy, but it's worth it because it's a nice feeling to see people leave smiling."

"It's fine to watch an O'Neill play, but you don't walk out with that feeling of elevation you get from a musical, he continued.

Lifting spirits is just what Gavin and Towers hope "Rodgers and Hart" will accomplish. The collection of 60 Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart favorites is "a lot more than a few ladies in long dresses standing on stage," said Towers.

"It's a very difficult play from a technical point of view because Hart's lyrics are tricky and intricate," added Gavin. "There are a lot of Rodgers and Hart buffs around, and we owe it to them to put on a good show."

"Rodgers and Hart" marks the first joint acting venture for Gavin and Towers, but the couple seem to be taking the landmark event in stride.

"I CALL it our 'noble experiment' — it will either make or break the marriage," joked Gavin with an affectionate glance at his co-star. "We've been talking about doing a show together for a long time, but this time everything clicked. . .it's marvelous material."

Do Towers and Gavin squabble over conflicting reviews or the issue of who gets top billing?

"That's easy. . .he always gets top billing as far as I'm concerned," laughed Towers. "The only time you get into trouble is when you're competing with each other, and we've never done that."

Towers and Gavin tied the knot two years ago — "Seems more like 200 to me," said Gavin with a wink — and each partner makes an effort to spend non-working time wherever the other is performing.

Gavin, for example, brought the couple's four children (two from her previous marriage, two from his) to Kansas City during the Republican national convention. Not only was the family together while Towers performed, but "we threw in a little education, too," said Gavin.

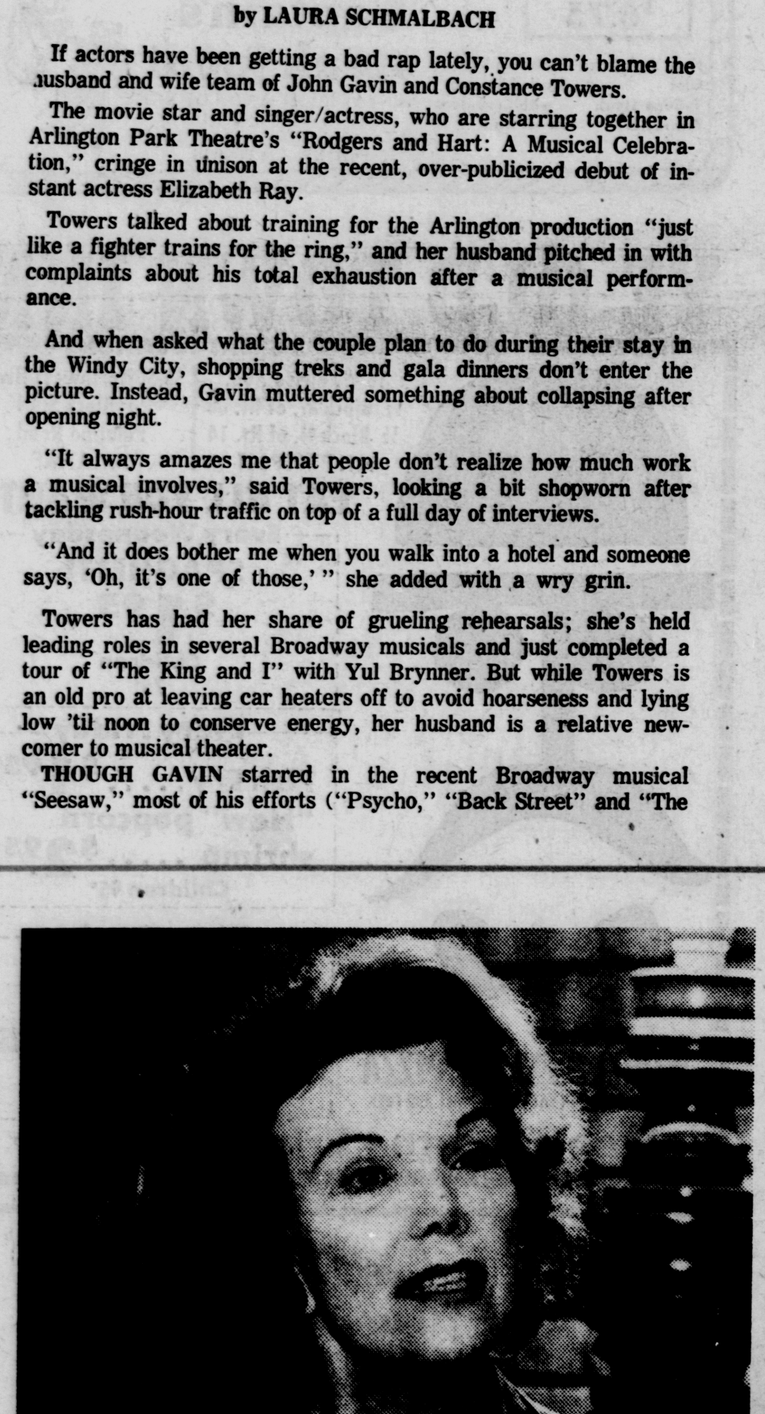

"We're all inveterate travelers," added Towers, "and when the children aren't with us, we talk to them by phone every night. Perhaps we do try harder because we're both acting. . .but at the same time we try to emphasize that ours is a profession just like any other."

THE FAMILY'S home base is the posh Los Angeles suburb of Bel Air, where the Gavins enjoy the typical California lifestyle of swimming and tennis.

But for now, it's strictly business. Gavin and Towers hope their excitement about "Rodgers and Hart" will rub off, and they both feel the production's good old-fashioned song and dance approach is appealing to audiences weary of more sophisticated fare.

"It's a nostalgic time right now, and this is a terrific family show that fits right in," said Towers. "We've already had 32 inquiries about taking the show to other theaters."

"People are just plain bored with dirty jokes," added her husband. "Americans brought musical theater to perfection, and I see plays like 'Show Boat' becoming a body of work like the opera. 'Rodgers and Hart' is part of that movement. . .and it's exciting."

"IT'S POINTLESS to argue about lip-reading versus sign language. The deaf person has the right to use anything he needs to help him get along in this world," said Nanette Fabray, now appearing at Drury Lane North.

An involved Nanette Fabray speaks her mind offstage

by ELEANOR RIVES

Nanette Fabray of the thick-lashed brown eyes, soft auburn hair and trim 5-foot 6-inch frame is fabulous, funny and, when you mention certain subjects, fiery.

It was the fiery Fabray who plunged into a discourse on young children in show business.

"I am against it, I am totally against parents pushing children into show business at an early age," she flashed. "It's a sinister thing. The child feels compelled to 'perform' for acceptance — this is the way he pleases his parents."

Of her own stage debut at age 3, she says, "Everything I did as a child had no bearing whatever on what happened to me in later life. Except for such things as dancing and singing lessons, early acting experience hinders rather than helps a youngster.

"THE MOST IMPORTANT thing a child can do is to become educated — and to be a child."

If entering show business too early was a minus, going to acting school as a teenager was a definite plus for the talented Ms. Fabray who, despite the rigorous schedule of 12 hours a day, six days a week, found it a rewarding and important learning experience in her life.

Since that time, she has racked up a 1949 Tony Award for best musical actress in "Love Life," two 1948 Donaldson Awards for best musical performance and best supporting performance in "High Button Shoes," and three best comedienne Emmys, 1955-57 for her performance on TV's "Sid Caesar Show."

She is currently starring in the comedy "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild" at Drury Lane North in Lincolnshire, her first return to Chicago stage in 30 years.

The fact that Nanette Fabray wears a hearing aid is common knowledge; that she recently recovered from an operation that replaced certain bones in her other ear with wires and restored her hearing to a great extent is perhaps less widely known.

AS A TEENAGER, she realized with anguish that she was losing her hearing. In the years that followed, not only did she rise above her handicap (otosclerosis) to become a brilliant actress-comedienne, but she became expert in matters of hearing impairment and a champion of the deaf and hard of hearing.

"More than 20 million people have hearing problems, with perhaps another 10 million unrecorded," she said. "That's more than all other disabilities combined."

She explained that hearing impairment means much more than a simple diminution of sound. More than 99 per cent of the hearing-impaired also suffered distortions such as head noises, inability to determine sound direction, and misunderstanding of consonants.

"I have a multiplicity of sounds and head noises," she said matter-of-factly. "They fluctuate — they pop in and out."

Ms. Fabray has actively served many organizations concerned with the plight of the hearing-impaired, including the Ear Research Foundation in Los Angeles, the New York League for the Hard of Hearing and the National Legal Aid Foundation, which deals with such staggering legal problems as how to defend the one out of every 25 children in mental institutions who is not retarded, but deaf. She is also immediate past chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Education of the Deaf.

THERE IS YET another area in which Nanette Fabray has personal experience, a keen interest and, because of her access to the media, is in a unique position to help. That is the area of widowhood.

Nanette married screen writer-producer Ranald MacDougall in 1957. Their son, Jamie, is now a freshman at Stanford University. After 16 years of marriage, just before Christmas in 1973, Ranald died.

"All Christmases are bleak for me," she said sadly. "I lost my father, my husband and three of my best friends — all at Christmas time."

Nanette threw herself into researching the problems of widow-

Toscanini recordings now available in LP set

by WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

No one will dispute the claim that Arturo Toscanini was one of the great conductors of all time.

And no one will challenge the claim that the Philadelphia Orchestra has been one of America's finest over almost half a century.

So when Toscanini and the Philadelphia Orchestra were brought together, a great event in our musical history occurred.

It happened in 1941 and 1942 during a period when Leopold Stokowski was leaving the Philadelphia scene and the young Eugene Ormandy was preparing to lead the noble orchestra into a new era.

TOSCANINI LED the Philadelpia Orchestra as a guest conductor in some memorable concerts. The first complete release of those recordings made in 1941-42 is now available in the form of a five-LP set, "Arturo 'toscanini — The Philadelphia Orchestra" released by RCA.

Although stereophonic sound was available, its use was not practical because most of the people who were buying records in those days were accustomed to a low-fidelity sound.

Even so, the technicians took loving care in putting the Toscanini triumphs in safekeeping for the future. Thus, the monophonic sound is excellent 35 years later, and with Toscanini conducting who needs stereophonic playback?

The set includes Schubert's "Symphony No. 9," Debussy's "Iberia and La Mer," Berlioz' "Queen Mab Scherzo," Respighi's "Feste Romane," Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration," and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 6."

TCHAIKOVSKY'S "Symphony No. 6," the "Pathetique," also may be heard on "The 3 Great Symphonies" with Ormandy conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra of today.

This three-LP set, also by RCA, begins with Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 4," followed by the "Fifth." Those listeners who like to make comparisons may play the Toscanini and Ormandy readings of the "Pathetique," and take their choice.

Ormandy's reading of the "Fifth Symphony" is worth the price of the album.

AN EXCELLENT choice of orchestral masterpieces makes up two albums, which may be purchased separately. One is "Showpieces for Orchestra" by Herbert Von Karajan conducting the Philharmonia Orchestra; the other the Berlin Philharmonic.

Both released by Angel, the first album features Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" and "Les Preludes," Suppe's "Light Cavalry Overture," Johann Strauss Jr.'s "Thunder and Lightning Polka," Rossini's "William Tell Overture" and Berlioz' "Hungarian March."

The second album includes Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture," Johann Strauss' "Radetzky March" and Borodin's "Polovtsian dances from Prince Igor."

hood, amassing thousands of letters and a voluminous research file.

"Do you know that one of every four married women under the age of 45 is a widow?" she asked. "And of those widows, one of every four will be stony flat broke at the end of a year!"

She added that the widowed person is almost completely abandoned socially at the end of the first month, that she loses her credit cards, her club memberships, that she faces inequities in Social Security and in taxes.

SHE INVITES WIDOWED people to write and tell her of the problems they have encountered since being widowed. Information she obtains will be kept anonymous and will be computerized. She cautions that she is not in a position to offer professional help, however, although there are organizations that do.

Those who wish to contribute to her statistics may write: Nanette Fabray, Hollywood, Calif.

Ms. Fabray continues to charm audiens with her musical comedy talent at Drury Lane North through Sunday, Dec. 5. After that, it's back to California for the holidays, and then on to Florida.

And wherever she goes, a mountain of mail goes with her.

By Francois Truffaut

'Small Change' sets off film gala

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Review

If the entire Chicago Film Festival measures up in quality to one of its entries, "Small Change," it could constitute a phenomenal artistic and entertaining event.

But that's almost too much to ask, for Francois Truffaut's latest endeavor, a return to childhood (remindful of his earlier film, "The 400 Blows,"), is even more appreciated when stacked against the mediocrity of other more elaborate movies.

That Truffaut is able to do so much and reveal so much in such a straightforward and simple fashion should inspire other filmmakers. Yet to expect anything less of the French director is almost ludicrous. I can't recall when he hasn't been right on target. And that goes for "Adele H" too.

CHARMING AND extremely light in nature but still cognizant of the usual traumas of growing up, "Small Change" focuses on a group of kids in a small French town.

Aged two months to 14, the children are all nonprofessional although, because of the delicacy and finesse with which they are handled, they come off as mini actors and actresses.

The highlight of this picture is the natural wit and spontaneity of childhood captured in the making.

One can hardly watch as little Gregory falls from a high-story window only to pick himself up unharmed and announce — "Gregory go boom."

THERE ARE snickers over the first kiss and anger over the mistreatment of one unhappy boy.

Children are children no matter the country and subtitles don't interfere in the least in this picture.

"Small Change" will begin a regular run at the Biograph Nov. 19 in case you miss its showing Monday as part of the film festival.

"Bittersweet love" offers an unusual, tragic twist to a love story that is supposed to bring tears to our eyes and uncontrollable sympathy for the couple involved — Scott Hylands and Meredith Baxter Birney — who, after marrying and with a baby on the way, discover they are half-brother and half-sister.

Even the most stilted soap operas could run rings around this atrocity. Lana Turner goes around looking distraught and aloof all the time. Thirty years previous she had a one-night fling. And now her daughter must suffer. Poor Lana.

SCOTT AND MEREDITH, after a fairytale romance much too storybook to be realistic, watch their marriage crumble because Meredith believes she has been performing incest.

On top of every trite phrase is one she utters that pretty well sums up this film — "Is this an obscene joke?"

If things aren't bad enough, Celeste Holm looks ridiculous paired with Robert Lansing and relegated to patting Meredith on the head. How did they ever convince her to do this movie in the first place?

And since most of "Bittersweet Love" was centered on wondering if the baby would be born normal or not — why didn't someone take the time to find out the baby's actual chances? Why couldn't Scott and Meredith run off, telling everyone just to mind their own business?

I DOUBTED their love from the beginning. I certainly have no faith in this picture. Worse of all, it's rated G.

FOR HIS NEW movie, Truffaut returns to the world of childhood. "Small change" is being shown at the Biograph Theatre, Chicago, Monday, 9:15 .m., as part of the Chicago Film Festival. It begins a regular run at the theater Nov. 19.

MEREDITH BAXTER Birney and Scott Hylands sadly reflect upon their problems over the crib of their newborn child in a scene from "Bittersweet Love."

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"Shout at the Devil" — Epic adventure based on a true story of the destruction of a disabled World War I German warship hiding out in the innards of Africa, undergoing repair. Stars Lee Marvin, Roger Moore and Barbara Parkins. (PG).

"Carrie" — A hated high school girl develops supernatural powers and uses these powers to get revenge. Stars Sissy Spacek, Amy Irving, Piper Laurie and John Travolta. (R).

"Man Who Fell To Earth" — Director Nicolas Roeg lavishes his dazzling bag of visual tricks on a dramatically disappointing science fiction film about an alien's unhappy stay on earth. Stunning performances from David Bowie and Candy Clark and a wry script help, but the purposely disjointed story-telling allows for too much ambiguity to be truly satisfying and stimulating. (R).

"The Front" — An entertaining, informative and thoroughly involving comedy-drama about the entertainment industry's infamous "blacklist" of the early 1950s, with Woody Allen outstanding as a none-too-bright cashier catapuled to fame by submitting the scripts of banished TV writers under his own name. Though it's essentially a fantasy — Allen becomes a committed martyr to free speech — the film maximizes both the absurdity and underlying destructiveness of the era to great effect. (PG)

"Marathon Man" — Dustin Hoffman stars as a graduate student dangerously immersed in an international intrigue involving Nazi war criminal Laurence Olivier. The film never really meshes because the plot is just too difficult to understand. Even Hoffman's character is weak. (R).

OAKTON COLLEGE student actors Marty Pistone, Niles, and Norbert Bartosiak, Des Plaines, rehearse intense moment in "The Sneeze," a vignette in the Oakton Theater Guild production of "The Good Doctor."

College theater group presents 'Good Doctor'

Student members of Oakton College Theater Guild are rehearsing for their first production of the season, "The Good Doctor," a Neil Simon adaptation of Anton Checkov's most brilliant short stories.

The play will be presented at Niles North High School, 9800 N. Lawler, Skokie, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 12 and 13, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 14, at 7.

A total of 35 students are involved in this production, some for college credit. Students in the Independent Study in Theater program are working on acting, lighting, business management, theater publicity and directing.

Customer gets good food and service as promised

The philosophy at the Cork N' Cleaver restaurant is simple: give the customer good beef, good booze and good service.

After dining at one of the Charter House restaurant chain's newest locations, 555 Mall Dr., Schaumburg, my reaction on all three counts is: very good.

Following the design of the first Cork N' Cleaver, built 12 years ago in Scottsdale, Ariz., the low Spanish-style building is constructed with adobe brick imported from Mexico. Colorful bottles embedded in cement panels serve as windows and room dividers.

Pottery, rug wall-hangings, sconces, colorful hand-strung chili peppers and other authentic Mexican artifacts are used as wall decorations throughout the dining rooms and lounge.

BY USING ADOBE brick archways and iron grillwork, the dining room is divided into intimate seating arrangements. Several free-standing and wall fireplaces add warmth to the rooms.

We were seated in comfortable chairs at a handsome butcher block table. Our waitress was friendly, kept water glasses filled, hot bread replenished and dishes cleared and was well-versed on the menu.

The wine list comes to the table inserted in an empty jeroboam of champagne. The selection of domestic and imported wines is well-balanced and competitive in price.

The menu, inscribed on a heavy meat cleaver, had to be passed around the table, and I found it a little difficult to read in the subdued light.

A TRIP TO THE salad bar is included with each entree. I chose Roquefort dressing to top a chilled pewter platter of mixed greens, cucumbers, tomatoes, chopped egg, onion, bacon and croutons. The dressing was creamy and chock-full of cheese bits.

As my entree I chose the house specialty, Cork's Pride, $8.45, billed as the "thickest steak you've ever seen." I requested the top sirloin steak charred on the outside and cooked rare.

The 14-ounce steak was grilled to perfection. Tender, juicy, with a natural beef flavor, it was more than enough for even the heartiest appetite.

Crab combo was my dinner companion's choice — top sirloin steak, cooked to order, served with two large Alaskan king crab legs, butter and lemon wedge, $7.95.

ORDERING A LA carte, we sampled a skillet of mushrooms sauteed in a delicious butter and wine sauce. Artichoke and baked potato may also be ordered.

The steak menu includes New York cut, club sirloin, teriyaki sirlin and beef kabobs in the $6 to $8 price range.

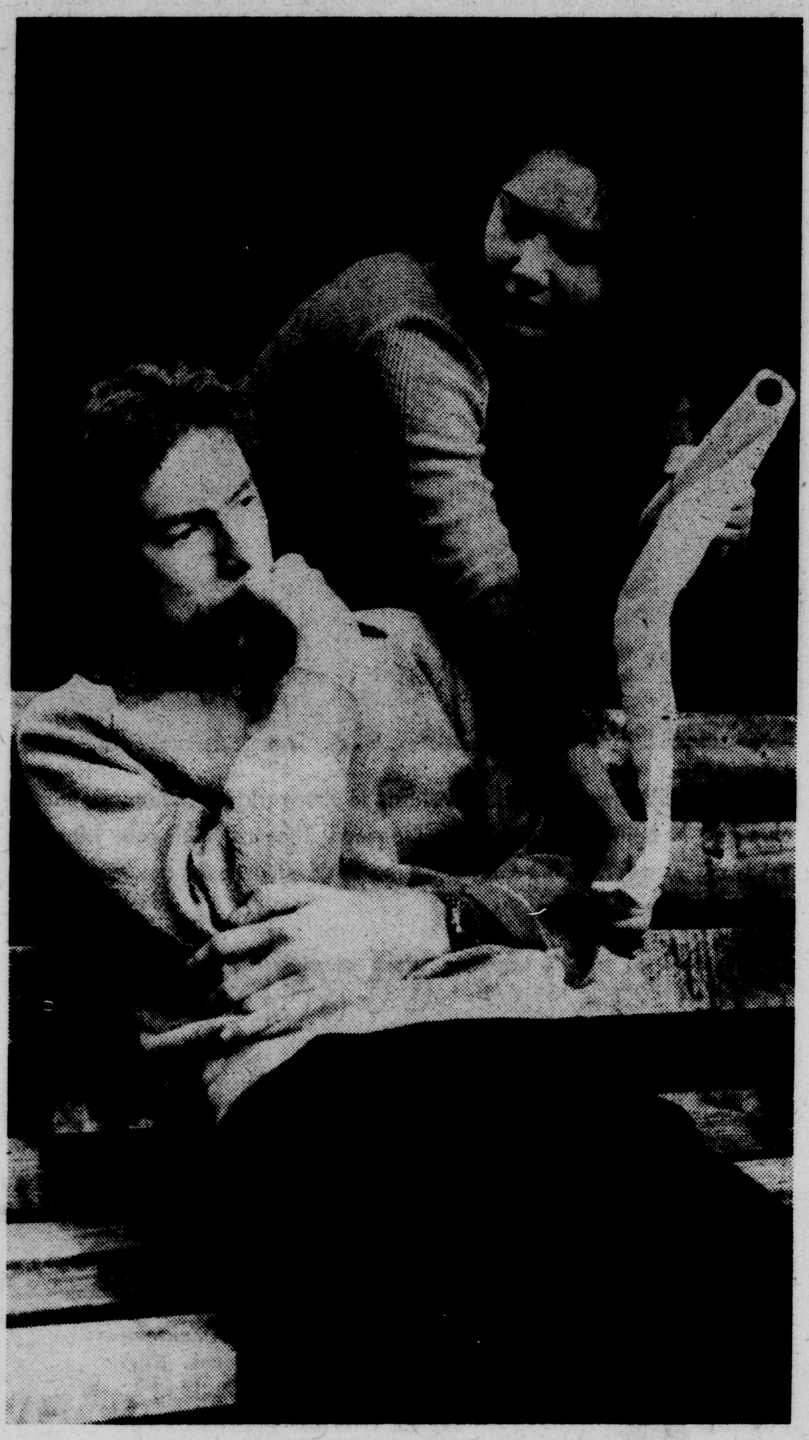

Chicken is available Hawaiian style, $4.45, or in combination with sirloin, $6.95. Alaskan King crab legs, $7.75, also may be ordered in combination with steak, $7.95.

Cheese cake and parfait are listed for dessert.

Cork N' Cleaver is open for lunch, featuring the salad bar with sandwiches and chili. The lounge, open until 2 a.m., is a nice place to have a casual after-dinner drink.

Night out

It isn't often that night club audiences are treated to an updated yet faithful rendition of Spike Jones' "Cocktails for Two." The Swinging Ambassadors, appearing at Allgauer's Fireside in Northbrook, carried off that zany number with ease, but it's too bad they couldn't keep the momentum going for the entire set.

The Minneapolis-based quintet is making its first appearance in the Chicago area in several years, and the show is a medley of comedy and old favorites from the Artie Shaw era through the Tijuana Brass.

For the most part, the musical numbers are well-done; a jumping version of "Kansas City" and a Big Band medley are particularly strong. Tom Meuhlbauer on sax and clarinet and Rich Clausen on trumpet are showcased throughout the set, and they did a fine job with the famous material.

Like so many show groups today, the Swinging Ambassadors can't resist spiking their act with comedy. But here, the tired cliches and corny jokes just take away from the music's impact, and the group would be better off leaving the slapstick approach alone.

Jerry Beth, the group's leader, manages to infect the audience with his own high-flying enthusiasm and skillful banjo-picking. Unfortunately his vivacity doesn't rub off on the rest of the group, which spends much of the evening looking slightly uncomfortable with the comedy material.

Despite the jokes, the Swinging Ambassadors appeal to almost every age group with their varied repertoire. Maybe they'll take the cue and stick to the music.

The group is appearing at Allgauer's lounge through Nov. 13.

DOLLY PARTON, who now has her own syndicated television show, is currently suffering from a throat infection it was announced this week. She has cancelled all singing engagements until the first of next year.

Dolly Parton is criticized for shaking country roots

by PAULA SCHWED

Dolly Parton, a poor Tennessee farm girl turned successful singer-songwriter, is the least likely candidate for criticism within the country music industry.

But the gay and friendly platinum blonde says she's recently been taking knocks from those who claim she's betraying country music by associating with country-pop newcomers like Linda Ronstadt and Emmylou Harris.

"I'm not betraying country music, I'm just trying to go in new directions. For me to say I'm anything besides a country person would be a lie," said the singer, who was again voted country music's best female vocalist this year.

FEW COUNTRY music entertainers can claim as authentic a rural background as the singer's upbringing in a backwoods mountain town.

As the fourth of a dozen children, she remembers hoeing corn and getting scolded by a straitlaced grandfather who "preached hell so hot you could feel the heat."

She boarded a bus for the big city of Nashville the morning after high school graduation and learned to eat heartily when she went on dates because the "pickings were slim."

Her fat hairdo and hourglass figure attracted attention, but a song titled "Dumb Blonde" finally landed her a regular spot on Porter Wagoner's nationally syndicated television show. Together they became one of the most popular duets in country music.

Dolly says her longtime association with Wagoner is another cause for attack.

"WHEN ANY long-term relationship ends, there's a certain amount of hurt and disappointment," she said.

This year, she decided to produce her own albums, formed her own music publishing company and began taping her syndicated television show, "Dolly!"

She also dropped her manager and hired a high-powered West Coast firm which handles Cher, the Osmonds, Mac Davis and Olivia Newton-John.

She says that's why some say she has abandoned her country roots.

"People punish you unjustly, but I'll tell you what I say. I just quote 'em a line from one of my songs — 'Don't open my closet if your own's full of trash."

DESPITE THE criticism, the singer says she'll continue to write simple, affecting country tunes like "Jolene," "I Will Always Love You" and "Love is Like a Butterfly," which were also recorded by pop artists.

"When my songs appeal to pop singers, then I win favor for country music. I wish people would understand that, but I'm too busy working and paying interest on my own life to worry too much about what people are saying about me."

Ask Andy

Traffic signals prevent snarls

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to David Lawson, 11, of Falmouth, Me., for his question:

WHEN WAS THE TRAFFIC LIGHT INVENTED?

The need for traffic control was felt many years before automatic traffic lights made their debut. Patrol officers perched on a platform in the middle of an intersection were the first traffic controllers. Their hand and arm signals, often accompanied by shrill whistle blasts, gave a "stop" or "go" message to drivers.

Even as far back as the early 1900s, busy cities found they needed patrol officers working in 24-hour shifts using hand-operated battery-charged signals. But as traffic increased, there simply were not enough patrol officers to cover every busy corner. Small wonder that the invention of the automatic traffic signal was a welcome one.

The first automatic traffic signal was installed Aug. 5, 1914, in Cleveland, Ohio. By today's standards it was a crude affair, strung about 15 feet above the middle of the intersection. The red light and the green light were accompanied by buzzers, which sounded long or short blasts to go with "stop" or "go."

Traffic signals insalled on the corner of streets began appearing in the lat 1920s and have btcome more complicated as traffic problems increased. The first lights gave the same duration of green or red regardless of the time of day, which often caused traffic jams, rather than cured them.

In 1928, one of the first lights designed to adjust to traffic conditions was installed in New Haven, Conn. This device operated when a car passed over a detector in the road pavement, signaling the "call box" on the light pole to change.

Charles Adler invented another type of traffic light — one which used the sound of the car horn to activate the call box. Other sound activators relied on the normal operating sounds of the car rather than the horn.

Nowadays, most large, metropolitan cities use computerized traffic signal systems. New York City and Toronto, Canada, for example, have gigantic computers which sort information fed through wires from detectors in the road pavement.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Angela Schaumburg, 14, of Stouffville, Ont., Canada for her question:

HOW DO DOCTORS DETERMINE THE DEGREE OF A BURN?

Burns are painful injuries that can be caused by a number of things. Generally when we think of a burn we think of fire, but hot objects, chemicals, electricity and violent rubbing also can cause a burn.

And don't forget about the sun and sun lamps. They also can cause painful, and sometimes serious, burns. Injuries caused by hot liquids, steam or other hot vapors are called scalds and are generally treated in the same manner as burns.

Burns are classified according to the depth of tissue injury. First-degree burns, such as sunburn, leave the surface of the skin red and quite painful to the touch. Swelling may occur, but the skin is not broken or blistered. Second-degree burns involve a deeper layer of the skin and are accompanied by puffy, liquid-filled blisters. Third-degree burns are deep and involve destruction of the skin and possibly charring. Many times skin grafts are necessary when third-degree burns occur.

Judge rules 'family hour' illegal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Thursday the "family hour" concept adopted by television networks for early evening viewing violates the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech, but said his court did not have the authority to end the practice.

U.S. District Judge Warren Ferguson handed down a decision in the suit brought by guilds representing writers, producers, directors and actors against the Federal Communications Commission, the National Assoc. of Broadcasters and NBC, CBS and ABC television networks.

In a key section of the 223-page decision, Ferguson said:

"THE ADOPTING of family viewing by each of the networks constitute a violation of the First Amendment. The networks are free to discontinue any variant of the policy provided that such programming decisions are made independent of concern for government reaction."

CBS, NBC and ABC, along with the National Assn. of Broadcasters, adopted the "family hour" in the spring of 1975 to reduce the level of sex and violence shown on television from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. local time.

Ferguson said the plaintiffs had shown that the FCC pressured the networks and the NAB into adopting a programming policy they did not wish to adopt.

"The desirability or undesirability of the family viewing policy is not the issue, Ferguson said.

"RATHER, the question is who should have the right to decide what shall and shall not be broadcast and how and on what basis should these decisions be made. . .

"If government intervenes in the future to control entertainment programming on television, it shall do so not in closed-door negotiating sessions but in conformity with legislatively mandated administrative procedures.

"In short, the family hour may or may not be desirable. Censorship by government or privately created review boards cannot be tolerated."

Moyse's risky bid scored

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The late Sonny Moyse, longtime editor of the Bridge World magazine, was one of the most exciting players. He would have been one of the greatest, if it were not for his penchant for taking some action on every hand. Here is one of his triumphs.

It was a pair tournament. Moyse sat West and decided that he just could not let North play at two diamonds. After all Sonny was looking at 13 high-card points and a five-card club suit. However he had to go to the three level to bid clubs. He could bid hearts at the two level and did just that. East might well have raised to three hearts. Everyone passed and Sonny's bidding and passed.

South looked at his two aces and decided to try two notrump. Sonny doubled! He didn't want East trying three hears. Everyone passed and Sonny opened the king of clubs. Since the doubleton queen-10 appeared in dummy and no one held four clubs, Sonny collected five club tricks.

Meanwhile, South discarded down to two queens and six diamonds in dummy. He was going to make his contract if diamonds broke.

Diamonds failed to break for him and he was held to four tricks so East and West scored 1100 points.

Oakland players leading picks in baseball draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three of the Oakland A's top stars — Joe Rudi, Don Baylor and Gene Tenace — were the prime selections in baseball's first reentry draft Thursday of free agents who have played out their options when all were chosen 12 times within the first four rounds.

There were eight Oakland players on the list of eligible free agents, but Rudi, Baylor and Tenace were the most popular choices of 23 clubs who participated in the draft. The world champion Cincinnati Reds were the only team who did not participate and owner Bob Howsam had said two weeks ago that it would not be fair to his team to enter the bidding war for the free agents.

EACH OF THE 24 players on the list is allowed to be taken 13 times including a selection by his previous team. However, the three Oakland players previously stated they had no desire to return to the A's and play for controversial owner Charles O. Finley. Finley, who originally said he would take part in the draft, changed his mind last Sunday and was an active participant, but did not select any of his previous players on the first five rounds.

Slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson, who played out his option with Baltimore, was the initial pick in the draft by the Montreal Expos, but Jackson's price tag of $3 million apparently scared off a lot of teams. The outspoken Jackson was taken only four times on the first five rounds.

Rudi, who hit .270 and drove in 94 runs with Oakland last season, was taken six times on the first round. The White Sox, San Diego, California, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Philadelphia all went for the right handed hitting outfielder.

Reggie Jackson

Joe Rudi

Rudi also was selected by San Francisco, the New York Mets, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Boston and Los Angeles. He is now free to negotiate with those 12 clubs.

TENACE WAS selected on the first round by the Cubs and Kansas City and was taken five times on the second round by Milwaukee, Houston, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

On the third round, the White Sox, San Diego, California, San Francisco and Cleveland also selected the power-hitting catcher-first baseman, making him the first player to be chosen by 12 clubs.

Baylor was picked by Texas on the first round, the White Sox and California, Cleveland and New York on the second round; Milwaukee, Chicago Cubs, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Kansas City on the third round; and by the New York Mets and Minnesota on round four.

Don Gullett, who played last season with Cincinnati, and is coming off ankle surgery, was taken by 12 teams during the first five rounds, as was outfielder Gary Matthews, who played last season with San Francisco. Matthews was the first pick of Atlanta in the first round and is believed to be close to signing with the Braves.

Jackson also was chosen by Los Angeles in the second round and by Atlanta in the third round.

SOME OF THE players on the list were not selected at all in the early rounds. For example, Steve Stone, a right handed pitcher who played last season with the Cubs, was taken for the first time on the eighth round by Texas.

If a player is unable to come to terms with any of the 13 clubs which chose him, he will then be placed in a secondary draft in early February at which time the names of those clubs still interested in bidding will be placed into a hat and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will pick out four of them. Only those four will be permitted to do the final negotiating.

Another stipulation in the draft limits the number of players a team can sign to two. This is to prevent the wealthier clubs from gaining a monopoly on the talent. However, if a team loses more than two players, it is permitted to sign as many as it loses.

"I'm doing this even though I'm 110 per cent against it," said Oakland owner Charles O. Finley. "I feel I'm contributing to the demise of baseball, but I don't feel I have any alternative. I don't have the money to get into this bidding, but I'll be there with bells on."

Girls at Downers Grove South

Swimmers open in state events

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

Eight area schools will be represented Friday and Saturday in the second girls state swim meet at Downers Grove South High School.

Arlington, who won the Glenbrook South District last week, will send the most representatives (five), who will represent the school in six different events, and will send its freestyle relay team.

Kelly Holland, ranked first statewide all year in diving, will be shooting for a state title. Holland, a senior, won the district title last week, but had only the third best performance in the state. Teammate Donna Wasiewlewski, who turned in the sixth best district performance will also compete.

ARLINGTON'S JUNIOR sensation Sue Cripe will be in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events and will anchor the Cards' relay team which turned in the fourth best district time with a 3:50.320. Hinsdale Central leads all with a 3:45.876 district clocking.

Also competing for the Cards will be Jahe Schramm (200-IM and 500-freestyle; and Maria Falcon (200-freestyle).

Prospect, which finished tied for second behind Arlington at Glenbrook South, will send freshman Barb Larsen (200-IM and 100-butterfly) and Patty Larsen (breaststroke) plus their individual medley and relay teams.

Defending state champ Maine South will get their chief competition from Hinsdale Central, Homewood-Flossmoor and Glenbrook North, and all of the infant state records are in serious jeopardy. In five of the 10 swimming events, the existing state record was bettered in district competition.

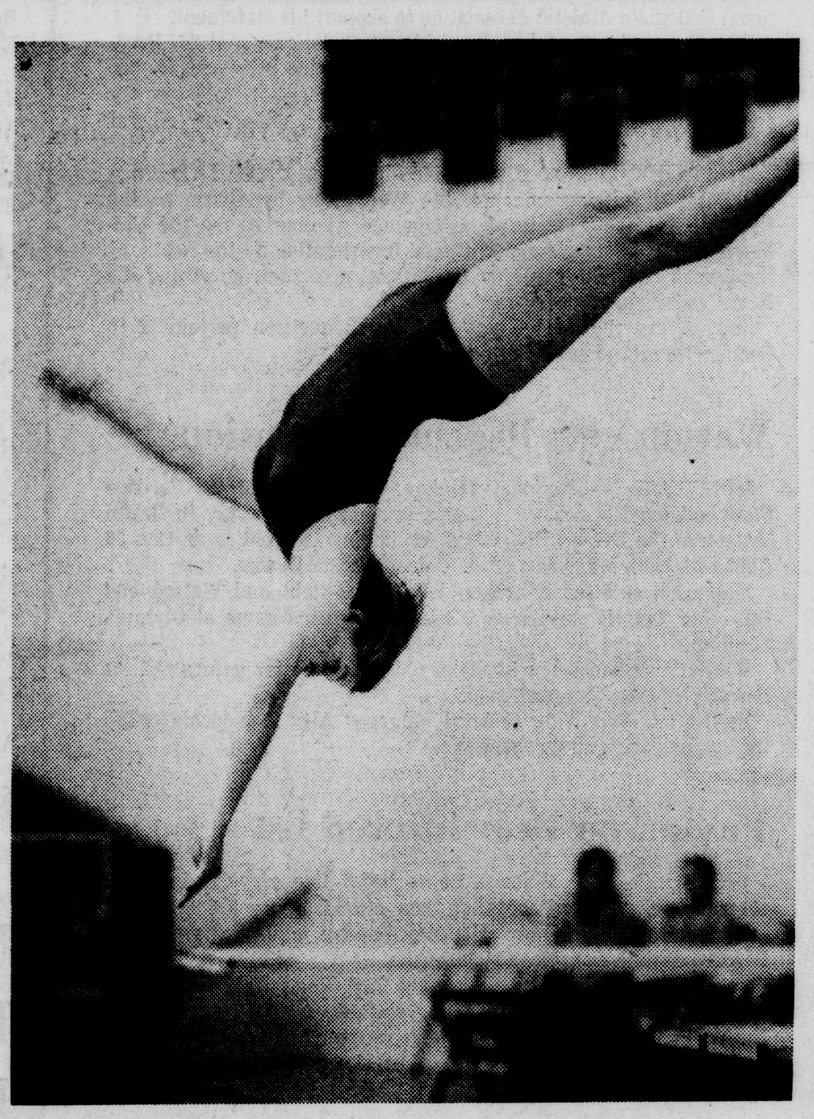

PRELIMINARIES in diving start at 10 a.m. today with swimming preliminaries at 4 p.m.

The consolation and championship heats begin Saturday at 1 p.m.

Hersey will send freshman Linda Walkowiak in the 200-IM and the backstroke which she won in the Glenbrook South District. Hersey's medley relay team has also earned a ticket to the state competition. Chris Takata will be Sacred Heart's only entry and will swim in the individual medley and breaststroke.

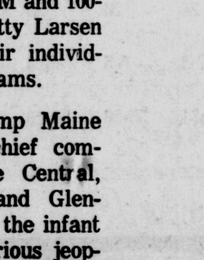

Wheeling's lone representative in the state meet is Ann Mackie (50-freestyle). Mary Kay Gerhardt is the solo Maine West state qualifier in diving. She took fourth in the Glenbrook South district.

ELK GROVE's Sharon Bird (200-freestyle and butterfly) and Kathy Amato (100-freestyle) will represent the Grenadiers. Palatine Freshman Liz Samoore rounds out the local field in the breaststroke.

Arlington's Kelly Holland, state diving contender.

Bears vs. Cardinals...classic collisions

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

The pass was perfect. "Babe" Dimancheff made his turn at the 40-yard line and gathered in the football. Nobody caught him.

There have been many big moments in Chicago professional football history, but the incidents fade with time.

The memory of that 80-yard touchdown play on a Sunday in 1947 remains vivid even today.

I WAS IN Wrigley Field that afternoon as an impressionable 11-year old, watching in awe as two pro football giants, the Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals, struggled for superiority.

Bears vs. Cardinals . . . those were the days.

I was reminded of that Sunday, that play, that bitter rivalry this week when a cohort on The Herald sports desk asked about the Bears and Cardinals.

As someone who fully understands the intensity of the bitterness that builds between fans of the Cubs and White Sox in baseball, he was curious about the football rivalry that existed in Chicago for many years.

MY AGE REALLY starts to show when staffers ask about the "old days," but it's fun some times to look back . . . and remember.

Maybe it was because I was so young then and so thoroughly wrapped up in the rivalry, but I still feel today there was nothing like those intense confrontations between the Bears and Cardinals in the 1940s. Nothing.

You could learn to really dislike a person for being a fan of the "other side." They were the enemy. They were not to be tolerated. Your team was better.

The Chicago Rockets of the All-American Football Conference tried to exist with the established Bears and Cardinals but were squeezed out over the long run. They forced some money changes but still lost the big battle.

THE CITY really belonged to the Bears. The Cardinals made things interesting for a time but eventually died at the box office and moved to St. Louis.

It was the rivalry with the Bears that actually helped keep the Cardinals going. The Cards had trouble filling the seats at Comiskey Park and for a time could stay alive just with the two games annually against the Bears. Later, even that didn't help.

The fans really loved this rivalry. You had to be around it to appreciate the intense interest in the 1940s.

The largest crowd in Chicago pro football history at the time (47,511) turned out in 1946 although nothing more was at stake than a "city championship."

The Cardinals held a 28-14 lead with four minutes remaining, but the Bears charged and tied the game. With seconds left Cardinal quarterback Paul Christman, failing to hear his coach screaming for a field goal, threw a touchdown pass to Mal Kutner.

THIS WAS the lift the Cardinals needed and they stormed into 1947 with high hopes. The Bears also had high hopes. They both took 8-3 records into the final regular-season meeting. The winner would represent the Western Division in the National Football League championship.

Just imagine the Cubs and White Sox meeting in similar circumstances, and you can understand the mass hysteria that gripped the city and suburbs. That's all the kids in our neighborhood talked about.

Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Cardinals, felt it was vital for his team to get on the scoreboard first. He wanted the enormous psychological advantage an early score would give in hostile Wrigley Field.

If you're only familiar with pro football as it is played today, a very conservative game for the most part, Conzelman's strategy will shock you.

He called for the bomb on the opening play.

THE BEARS kicked off and the Cardinals took over on their own 20. End Kutner pulled a fake that set up two Bear defenders and Dimancheff streaked out of the backfield against a slower Mike Holovak.

Cardinal quarterback Christman unloaded the pass, and it was perfect. Nobody caught Dimancheff.

Conzelman had what he wanted, the early advantage. That 80-yard bomb sent the Cardinals on to a 30-21 victory and the Western Division title. They beat the Philadelphia Eagles, 28-21, for the NFL crown.

THE CARDINALS also edged out the Bears in 1948 but lost the league championship to Philadelphia, 7-0, on a field covered with deep snow.

For the Bears the years 1947 through 1951 were seasons of utter frustration. They had the best overall won-lost record in the league for four years but finished second every time.

The Bears still ruled the city.

And the Cardinals died a slow death.

In 1958 the Cards reached a low point with attendance of only 96,000 for an entire season. They moved to St. Louis in 1960 after 40 years of competition with the Bears.

IT WAS A sad day for football fans in Chicago. Those bitter battles between the Bears and Cardinals in the late 1940s were classics.

The Cardinals' halfback Charley Trippi ended one season by walking over to Bears' defensive end Ed Sprinkle in the closing seconds of the last game and belting him.

As Sprinkle hit the ground, Trippi trotted off the field.

"It was worth it," Trippi said when he paid the fine.

Bears vs. Cardinals. Now that was a rivalry.

IT WAS A time when the city of Chicago erupted with emotion and the playing field rocked with the closest thing to gladiatorial combat that a merciful society permits.

It was a 100-yard war.

Orr squelches retirement talk

BOSTON — Bobby Orr says he "definitely will not retire" and plans to play hockey "until I can't skate" any more, according to a copyrighted interview published Thursday.

The Chicago Black Hawks' defenseman told Russ Conway of the Lawrence Eagle Tribune he hoped to play in three weeks following minor surgery on his delicate left knee.

"I'll play hockey until I'm not able to skate. The game has been great to me and I'm definitely not retiring now," Orr said in a Wednesday night telephone interview from his Northbrook, Ill., home.

"I'll play and just keep letting them fix me up until I can't skate and help the Hawks any more."

Chicago signed Orr as a free agent last June after contract negotiations between the star and the Bruins broke down. After seven months of inactivity, Orr returned to be the Most Valuable Player for victorious Team Canada in the World Cup series.

Talk of retirement resurfaced after his knee swelled up again last week. One published report quoted Dr. John Palmer, Orr's surgeon, as saying the player planned to retire.

"I talked to Dr. Palmer about that and he never said that I was thinking about retiring," said Orr. Palmer said he was misquoted.

O.U. veep denies NCAA probe

NORMAN, Okla. — A University of Oklahoma vice president repeated Thursday that Oklahoma's football program is not under official investigation and released a terse message from the National Collegiate Athletic Association to support his statement.

John Dean, vice president for university relations, said OU President Paul F. Sharp and Dr. J. R. Morris, vice president for the university community, "have said from the outset, and we say again today, the University of Oklahoma is not under any official investigation or official inquiry by the NCAA."

Dean said Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, replied Thursday to a telegram sent late Wednesday by Sharp, asking Byers to "please state in plain language whether or not the University of Oklahoma is under official investigation by the NCAA as required by Section Three, of the official procedure governing the NCAA enforcement program."

"Mr. Byers replied today, 'As to your question pertaining to Section Three, the answer is no,' " Dean said.

Watson gets 10-game suspension

MONTREAL — National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell handed down a 10-game suspension Thursday to Bryan Watson of the Detroit Red Wings for his involvement in an Oct. 30 fight with Keth Magnuson of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Magnuson suffered a broken jaw in the fight and Watson and two other Detroit players were ejected from the game at Olympia Stadium.

Watson's suspension, without pay, is effective for games Oct. 31 thorugh Nov. 21, Campbell said.

In Detroit, Red Wing General Manager Alex Delvecchio called the suspension "grossly excessive."

Payton on Bear injured list

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bears listed five players, including running back Walter Payton, on their official injury list Thursday, but said Payton probably will play Sunday against the Oakland Raiders despite a sprained right ankle.

Others on the list were defensive end Roger Stillwell with a pulled hamstring, defensive end Royce Beery with a right shoulder bruise, linebacker Waymond Bryant, recovering from stomach flu, and tackle Lionel Antoine with a left knee sprain. Antoine and Stillwell were listed as questionable players, the others probable.

Pele says '77 is last year

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Brazilian soccer star Pele said at a news conference Thursday that he does not intend to extend his contract with the New York Cosmos and will retire from the team at the end of 1977 when his $4.7 million pact ends.

He said he would accept a position as an adviser to the Brazilian National Team.

Why Bowie Kuhn went coatless

NEW YORK — Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, cleared up the reason Thursday for not wearing a top coat during the World Series even though the mercury dipped to the low 40's.

"My general practice is not to wear a coat at baseball games whether they're played in April, August or October," said Kuhn, who presided over Thursday's free agent draft. "It wasn't that I was trying to prove anything; I simply don't like to wear a coat."

Kuhn had caught a lot of flak for not wearing a coat at the Series, critics suggesting he had done so primarily to provide additional personal endorsement for playing World Series games at night during the month of October.

Two teams tied for Disney lead

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. — Woody Blackburn and Bill Kratzert came from out of nowhere Thursday to tie Jerry McGee and Allen Miller for the first round lead in the $200,000 Walt Disney World Golf Classic-National PGA Team Championship.

Both teams fashined nine-under-par rounds of 63 on the 6,951-yard Palm Course, one of two layouts being played at this sprawling vacation park in Central Florida.

Blackburn and Kratzert were among the last of the 104 two-man teams to tee off and they put together four birdies on their first nine holes and another five on the last nine to jump into a tie for a one-stroke lead in the best-ball chase. The winners will pick up $20,000 each.

Saxon girls fail field hockey test

Conant and Schaumburg will have to wait until next year's field hockey season for a rematch.

The two arch-rival teams had hoped to meet again in the first round of the state tournament next week, but Barrington had other ideas.

Using what Saxon coach Kay Winkelhake called a "lucky goal" in the first half, the Barrington Broncos held on to win the Elgin Larkin Sectional game at Elgin Thursday, 1-0.

"WE DOMINATED them but they just had a lucky shot that went in in the first half," said Winkelhake of the disappointing loss. "In the first half we were about equal in penetration time and shots on goal. And in the second half Barrington hardly crossed the 50.

"We had about 25 shots in the game, most in the second half . . . One lucky shot. That's what is hard about this game."

Barrington's only goal came on a shot which zipped past goalie Liz Walker about waist high.

"There was nothing she could do about it," said Winkelhake. "A lot of those shots are called 'dangerous' and don't count because there's no protection from the waist up."

HOWEVER, THE officials declared the shot good. Walker made some fine saves during the game, but her teammates failed to provide her with the tying marker. The Saxons bowed out of the state tournament with a 9-6 record, including a thrilling 5-4 overtime win against state finals bound Conant.

Schaumburg's coach singled out Kim Wallner, a freshman, for her "excellent defensive play. Cathi Anderson also played a consistent game again. The whole team played well in the second half — probably the best half they've had this season."

"I think it hurt us a little bit when we got the bye on Tuesday," said Winkelhake. (Schaumburg had a layoff after defeating Larkin, 3-0). "Teamwise, it was the strongest team we've ever had. It was total team effort. I'm really looking forward to next year."

Northwestern to host Big Ten harrier meet

Northwestern will be the host school at the 62nd Annual Big Ten Cross Country Championship on Saturday. The meet will be run at the Lewis Institute of Law, a five-mile course in Glen Ellyn. It will begin at 11:30 a.m. The course is located on Highway 53 and Roosevelt Rd.

Illinois' sparkling senior Craig Virgin will be trying to do what no harrier has ever done before — win four straight individual Big Ten cross country titles. The competition will be tough, however, with four of the five top finishers from a year ago all back for one more go around.

Wisconsin, led by Mark Johnson and Steve Lacy, is the favorite going into the meet, although Michigan can never be discounted in a Big Ten race. The Wolverines have won the team cross country title for the last two seasons, and return top runner Greg Meyer.

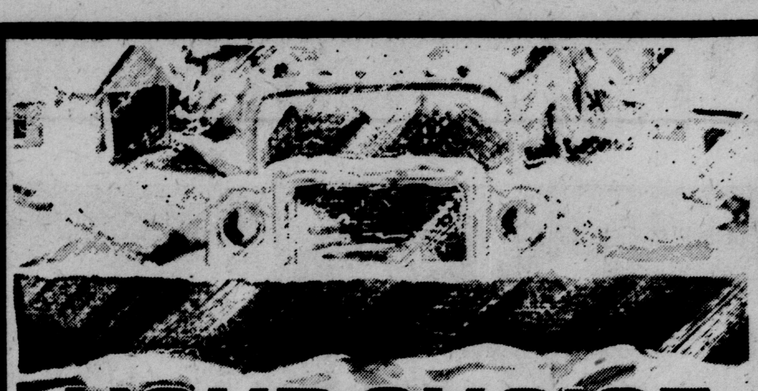

INDIANA MUST be considered as a serious challenger, while Ohio State has excellent darkhorse possibilities. Michigan State's Herb Lindsay is back to power the Spartans after finishing second and third in the last two Big Ten cross country championships.

Northwestern is hoping to improve its 10th place finish of a year ago. The Wildcats will be led by senior co-captain Steve Kolodrubetz, a solid Big Ten competitor.

Wisconsin has won the overall Big Ten team title on 15 occasions, while Michigan State and Indiana have won 14 and 12 championships respectively.

Northwestern Coach Don Amidei is the Big Ten meet director.

Pride plays a role for season windups

by KEITH REINHARD

Six cross-division contests bring down the curtain on Mid-Suburban League football this weekend with little more than pride and some statistical odds and ends riding on the outcomes.

Friday night Forest View will be at Arlington and Palatine at Prospect in a pair of on-and-off old rivalries. Meanwhile, Buffalo Grove will visit Elk Grove and Hoffman Estates drops in on Fremd to cnntinue a couple of much newer rivalries and Rolling Meadows visits Hersey hoping to turn around a lop-sided series.

Saturday Wheeling is at Schaumburg in another young rivalry. Other area regular-season finales on tap will see Maine North at Conant, Marist at St. Viator and Niles West at Maine West tonight. St. Viator will play on the Rolling Meadows field.

PROBABLY THE toughest show around will be the Bird Bowl: the Falcons vs. the Cardinals. Both clubs are coming off impressive triumphs, have exceptionally strong defenses and bring winning over-all records into the fray.

The game is also a cross-town rivalry heavily favoring the Cards. Arlington totally dominated the showdown the first three times the two teams met (1966-68) before Forest View claimed a 6-0 verdict in '69.

For some strange reason these two clubs did not collide again for six years, and the Cards won that 1975 encounter, a 25-20, for a 4-1 edge.

Each side has another different reason for wanting to finish up on a winning note. For Forest View, it would make for a 7-2 record and a very outside shot at an at-large berth in the playoffs.

FOR ARLINGTON, it would be their 50th conference win since joining the MSL. The other team closest to approaching this plateau is Forest View at 47.

Possibly the game most fun to watch tonight will be the one unwinding at Prospect. Tht Knights and Pirates historically lean more toward offense than defense and their rivalry, dating back to 1965, substantiates this.

Except for '66 and '73 when Palatine forged 14-0 and 23-0 shutouts, there have always been four or more touchdowns scored. In '68 nearly 70 points were rung up on the scoreboard when the two outfits clashed and last fall Palatine sauntered off with a 34-8 victory.

Palatine holds a lead in the series 5-2-1 with the teams not meeting in '70, '72 or '74.

HERSEY AND MEADOWS started playing in 1972 and the Huskies have now won four straight. During that time they've outscored the Mustangs 126-31.

Schaumburg and Wheeling met in 1973 and 1975 and the Saxons won both times. The Grenadiers and Hawks each won by three points last season in initial combat with the Bison and Vikings.

In terms of Mid-Suburban statistics, there appear to be few changes on the horizon for various individual and team honor rolls. Steve Knudson of Schaumburg, the loop's top rusher this autumn, currently has 677 yards and is tied with former Wildcat star Bert Newman in 18th place on the single season honor roll.

A 180-yard performance by Knudson Saturday would shoot him up into fifth place. There will be few others denting this list in '76.

ON THE AERIAL scene Buffalo Grove's Scott Groot has 637 yards and could move up as high as 11th place on the circuit passing honor roll with a 200-yard splurge.

The top league receivers at the moment are Hoffman's Bill Strawn and Brad Millar of Prospect with 21 catches each. A nine-reception show tonight for either would hike them into eighth place all-time for a single season.

Millar additionally has 346 yards worth of catches. There are only nine in previous seasons who have attained more than 400 yards in one year.

Elk Grove may earn some realistic comparisons to the mythical Gren state championship team of 1972 by churning out 300 more yards of rushing tonight. They already rank among the best 10 all time MSL squads in terms of rushing and total offense yardage.

MAINE WEST will be shooting for a second straight win Friday after soundly thrashing Niles East last weekend. Viator, in a tuneup for next week's state playoffs, will host Marist on the Rolling Meadows field.

Conant, which wrapped up league play last weekend, tackles Maine North at home Friday in a non-conference affair.

Hawks trip Bulls 97-87; Cavs win 7th straight

ATLANTA — Joe Meriwether scored a season-high 24 points and the Atlanta Hawks held together a strong defense to defeat the Chicago Bulls 97-87 Thursday night in an NBA game.

The Bulls grabbed the lead early in the game, scoring 13 straight points midway through the first quarter. They held a 24-12 lead with three minutes remaining in the quarter, but Atlanta fought back by outshooting them 12-2 to end the quarter trailing only by two points.

The Bulls expanded their lead in the second quarter, however, with a 10-2 scoring spree in the last four minutes to end the half with a 50-43 advantage.

CHICAGO HAD A 10-point lead, 56-46, when the Hawks turned on a fierce defense and outscored the Bulls 18-7.

The Hawks went ahead by one point, 64-63, with 3:06 remaining in the third quarter. It was the first time they held the lead and they never relinquished it. They were aided by numerous Chicago fouls late in the fourth quarter.

Gilmore had 16 and Mickey Johnson had 17 to lead the Bulls. Drew was second for Atlanta with 21.

Campy Russell came off the bench to pour in 14 fourth period points Thursday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers ran their winning streak to seven games with a 96-88 NBA victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

MILWAUKEE, PLAYING without Bob Dandridge and Elmore Smith, who were injured against Washington Wednesday night, watched the Cavs jump out to a 15-point lead midway through the second period before the Bucks put on a strong second half rally.

The Bucks, with Brian Winters and Gary Brokaw combing for 16 third-period points, tied it at 63 going into the final period and Russell came in to help continue the Cavs' undefeated streak.

The third-year forward from Michigan, who finished with 22 points, hit on four of eight from the field and canned six free throws. A three-point play by Russell with 4:08 left in the game moved the Cavs in front 87-82 after Swen Nater's hook shot pulled Milwaukee to within two at 84-82.

Jim Chones hit on his first five shots and Dick Snyder, who finished with 18 points, added eight points to give the Cavs their big first half lead. Winter topped Milwaukee with 23 points with Kevin Restani adding 16.

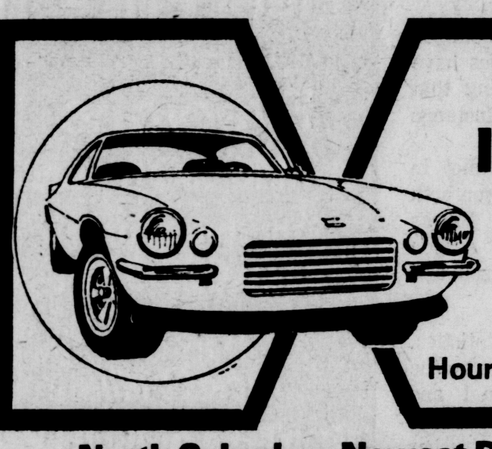

Harper to host N4C meet today

Harper will host the N4C junior college cross-country conference meet today at 4 p.m. at Palatine Hills Golf Course.

The Hawks, along with Triton and DuPage, will be among the favorites in the five-team meet. Harper runner Wil Fieldhouse will be one of the individuals vying for honors. Fieldhouse finished fifth in the Region IV meet last weekend to qualify for the nationals Nov. 13 in New York.

In addition to Harper, Triton and DuPage, teams from the Wright and Illinois Valley will also be competing in the five-mile race.

The N4C conference consists of eight schools, but three of them — Rock Valley, Thornton and Joliet — do not field cross-country teams.

Bruins' McNab drops hat on Black Hawks, 7-5

BOSTON — Peter McNab scored three goals and Jean Ratelle two Thursday night as the Boston Bruins outgunned the Chicago Black Hawks 7-5 with a pair of three-goal spurts.

The hat trick was the first in McNab's three-year National Hockey League career. Don Marcotte and Gregg Sheppard also scored for the Bruins, who lead their division with a 10-3 record and 20 points.

Pit Martin had two goals for Chicago while Darcy Rota had one score and three assists. Grant Mulvey and Dick Redmond accounted for the other Chicago goals.

THE BLACK HAWKS were playing without former Bruins' superstar Bobby Orr as well as Stan Mikita, Keith Magnuson, Dennis Hull and Bill White, all out with injuries.

The Bruins scored three times within 2:14 of the first period, with McNab getting a pair within 10 seconds at 8:47 and 8:57? But Rota, who opened the scoring at 5:48, set up both Mulvey and Martin to force a 3-3 tie.

Redmond tallied 44 seconds into the middle period but Boston won the game with three goals in a 1:47 span midway through the period. Marcotte tied the game at 8:36, McNab completed his hat trick — picking up his 12th goal — at 10:02 and Sheppard got the game winner at 10:23 from in front of Tony Esposito.

Saxon frosh 1st

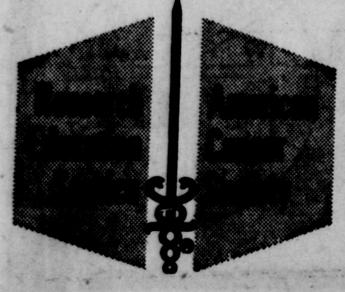

Schaumburg's freshman cross-country runners posted an impressive first-place performance in the Lake Park Invitational Tuesday afternoon as Mark Wilkerson finished third over-all behind two Ridgewood harriers.

The Saxons scored 58 points to edge out Ridgewood (60) in the nine-team meet. Conant was third with 101 points and Palatine placed fifth with 125.

Schaumburg's scorers, behind Wilkerson, were Dave Carryer, Larry Russell, Scott Ingebretson, and Pat Maurer.

Conant's first finisher was Bob Kleeman, who was ninth over-all.

Mental attitude helps Susy reach top

Charlie Dickinson
Staff Sportswriter

What began on the street in front of her house over four years ago became reality last Saturday when Stevenson High School freshman Susy Jaeger won the girls' state tennis singles championship.

"My parents played a lot before I started," Susy said, "and, at first, my Dad and I just hit it back and forth in the street.

"I liked it well enough to keep playing."

SHE HAS BEEN playing ever since, picking rough spots out of her game and smoothing them with hours of daily practice, driving herself toward perfection of a sport she now admits she is rather fond of.

And, with one state championship, she is aware people will expect her to win more.

"I know everybody will be expecting me to win now whenever I play," she said. "That kind of pressure may bother me, but I don't think I'll let it.

"Mental attitude is such a big part of tennis and I think I've improved mine more than anything else."

IT WAS HER state of mind, Susy contends, that enabled her to break an eight match jinx Hinsdale Central junior Betsy Heidler held over her in the semifinals.

That, and a little friendly rivalry between Susy and her 11-year-old sister Andrea.

"I had lost to Betsy eight straight times," Susy said, "so when I went into that match I just told myself I had lost before so I had nothing to lose by trying to win.

"Another thing that had a lot to do with it," she laughed, "was that Andrea had already beaten Heidler before."

JAEGER IS under the tutelage of Stevenson tennis coach Terry Spurlock, her personal coach Bob Maramba and her father, Roland.

"My father got me started," Susy said, "but he's never forced me to get out and practice. I've practiced as much as I have because I want to.

"I have to skip some of the social stuff kids my age have but I figure I can do that later. Right now, tennis is my chance to get a college scholarship and I don't want to ruin that."

Jaeger, who says her grades are "mostly A's and B's", was welcomed back to Stevenson after her triumph with a congratulatory announcement in front of the entire school and a bouquet of roses.

"EVERYTHING HAS kind of settled down now," she said, "but it was pretty wild there for awhile. People here were really nice, coming up to me in the hall to congratulate me."

Jaeger earned those congratulations with a surprisingly convincing 6-4, 6-4 win over the tournament's top-seeded player, New Trier West senior Colette Bennett.

"I felt pretty good going into the final match," Susy said. "I told myself before the tournament to play each match at a time and that's what I did. The last was hardly different from any other."

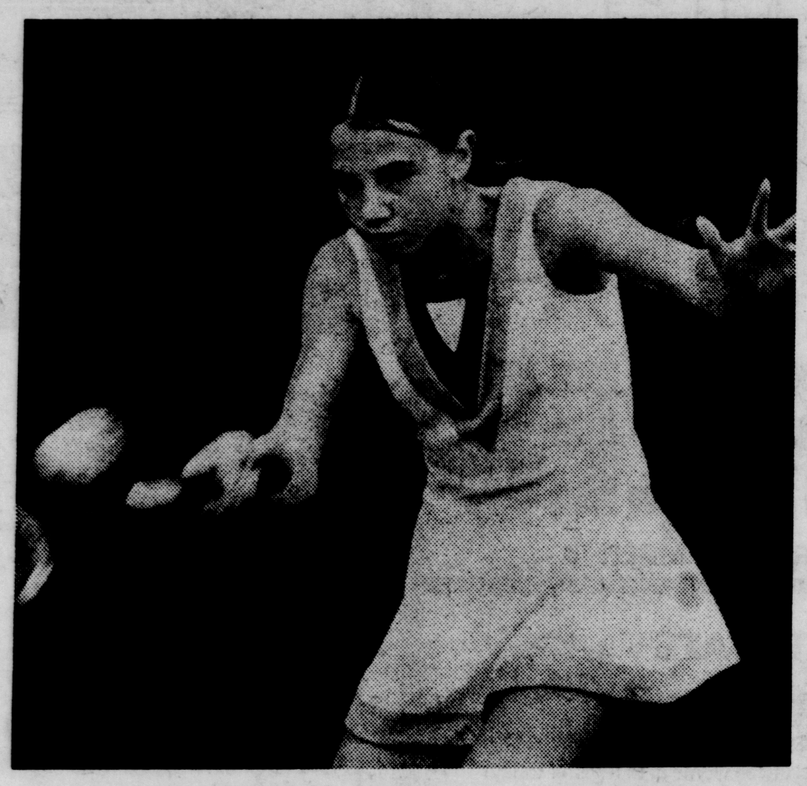

After taking the first set, Bennett put on a flurry that gave her a 2-0 lead in the second. Jaeger's mental attitude, and a few hundred flawless tennis strokes, took over from there.

"I WAS SO HAPPY to win the first set," Susy recalled, "that my concentration fell off at the start of the second.

"It was just a matter of pulling myself together and paying attention to what was happening."

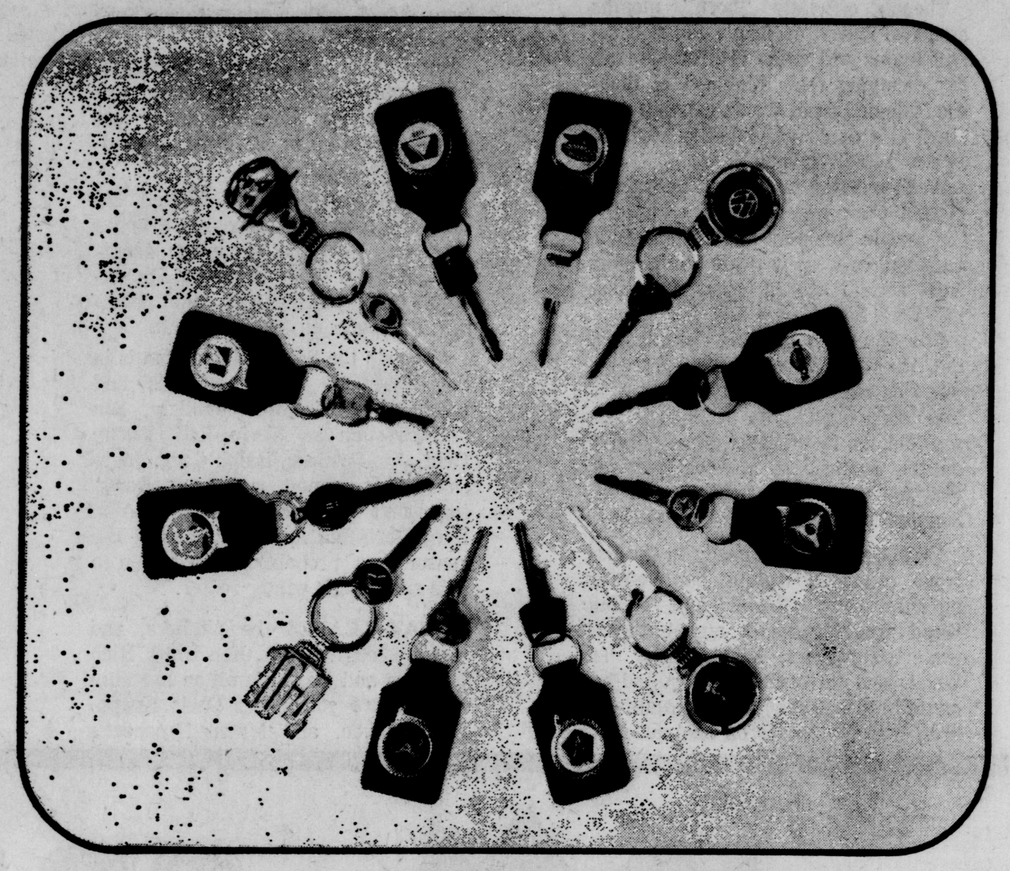

But, with the state championship secure, Susy Jaeger was not through with tennis for the day. She quickly caught a plane to Detroit where she played, and won in straight sets, a late evening match.

"I didn't think I could do it," she said, "because I was pretty exhausted. But just because I'd won the state championship didn't mean I had to stop playing."

State tennis champion Susy Jaeger of Stevenson.

Seattle, Toronto start drafting

by BOB GALLAS

Though officially "born" months ago, two new American League baseball teams will come to life today after receiving their lifeblood of players, selected from the 12 existing A.L. clubs in a draft scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. (EST) in New York.

While existing teams will be able to protect their top 15 players initially, the Seattle Mariners and Toronto Blue Jays will eventually draft five players from each of the 12 teams, including the White Sox.

The Sox, who finished dead last in the American League West, probably won't be affected as much as many of their counterparts, for the simple reason that the talent level drops sharply on the Southsiders after 15 players. But some interesting names on the Sox roster have been left unprotected.

FOR EXAMPLE, nobody in the Sox front office is saying but veteran pitchers Clay Carroll and Wilbur Wood probably aren't among the 15 protected players. It's believed that Wood, who can veto being drafted because he's a 10-year major league veteran with five years on one club, has reached terms with the Sox and will refuse to go with either expansion team, which adds a space to the Sox' protected list.

But Carroll, an effective but aging and high-salaried relief pitcher the Sox picked up from Cincinnti last winter, could go in the draft, depending on a team's need.

Each time a player is drafted, his club can then add three more to its protected list. The expansion teams don't have to draft in order. For example, an expansion club could get its first five picks all from one club.

Although the Sox' protected list is in the hands of league officials and hasn't been disclosed publicly, Sox players such as Kevin Bell, Bucky Dent, Jim Spencer, Ralph Garr, Jorge Orta, Chet Lemon, and Brian Downing won't be going anywhere. Alan Bannister's hot last six weeks of the season has probably earned him a safe spot on the winter roster.

THAT LEAVES the pitchers, and that's a tougher pick. Ken Brett, Rich Gossage and Dave Hamilton are sure bets as are youngsters Chris Knapp, Ken Kravec, and Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe. The remaining spot is a tossup and will probably go to Francisco Barrios, although Pete Vuckovich or Bart Johnson could find a spot.

Although the Sox would probably like to see Carroll taken on the first pick, they could lose hard-hitting first baseman Lamar Johnson, second baseman Jack Brohamer or utility infielder Bill Stein. Also available would be Pat Kelly and backup catcher Jim Essian.

After the first pick, the Sox will be able to protect Stein, Brohamer and Lamar Johnson. If one of those three has been taken, then Essian can be added to the list, or perhaps Kelly. The 17 players the Sox will protect after the first round pick will be the nucleus Sox president Bill Veeck will build around during the winter, a winter sure to include a few serious trades on the South Side.

"Who we'll lose depends a lot on what a team needs when they get to us," said one Sox player. "And also on whether the team is going for young players or experience."

THE SEATTLE franchise reportedly will be eyeing players with experience while Toronto will go for youth.

IN-TOWN PROGRAM PLAYOFFS

Super Pee Wee

The Cavaliers, undefeated in regular season play, carried their winning ways into the playoffs to defeat the second place Dukes 21-6 to take the Super Pee Wee trophy. The Cavaliers wasted no time in taking command, scoring twice in the first quarter and once in the second for a 21-0 halftime lead. The Dukes came back with a touchdown in the third period.

Chuck Villano led the Cavalier offense with 70 yards in 17 carries and one TD. Teammate Jim Hauck was close behind with 69 yards in 13 carries. Hauck also scored a TD did Bill Schiemann who moved the ball 10 times for a gain of 28 yards. Doug Balousek contributed 25 yards rushing in two carries.

Cavalier defense held the Dukes to 84 total yards. With this victory the Cavaliers retained the title as the only unbeaten team in the entire Schaumburg boys football program.

In the other Super Pee Wee game, the Barons held onto their third place spot by defeating the Lords.

PEE WEE

The Warriors, locked in a first-place tie with the Spartans at the end of regular season play, walked off with the Pee Wee trophy as they pushed the Spartans into second place with a commanding 28-0 victory. Keith Kennedy led the scoring for the Warriors with two touchdowns. Rich Reuter and Bob O'Hara registered one apiece, and Reuter and Ted Lapinski each added an extra point. A safety accounted for the other two points.

The Pee Wee third place playoff game, a hard-hitting defensive battle for three periods, saw the Crusaders maintain their third place standing with a 14-2 victory over the Lancers. The Lancers took a 2-0 lead in the third quarter on a safety. The Crusaders exploded in the final period as Rich Miller scored twice on runs of 36 and four yards and Kip Johnson tallied a two-point conversion. Also contributing to the Crusader offensive efforts were Brian Andrews who gained 23 yards in eight carries. Tim McCullah was outstanding on both offense and defense for the Lancers.

Bills Junior League

Pee Wee Bills Black 13, Lake Zurich Purple 0

Right end Tom Zeken caught a 25 yard pass from QB Ray Strickland to open the Bills scoring midway in the first quarter. The 25 yards was part of 182 total offensive yards the Bills made. The defense limited Lake Zurich to 54 total yards and produced the other Bills TD. Safety Mark Loeffler picked off a Lake Zurich aerial in the third quarter and went in from 30 yards out. Greg Thompson, Scott Kozemzak and Jeff Adams alternated at back positions to produce 138 yards rushing. Beside Loeffler, Craig Kritch from his defensive end position made 10 tackles and Chris Saylor and Rck Kobernick stopped Lake Zurichs' running attack.

Bills Lightweights 28, Grayslake Colts 6

The Bills used a rugged ground attack from QB Doug Nelson, and his running backs Jim Burnetti, Jeff Albrecht, and Joel Fish, to total 231 yards rushing. Halfback Jim Burnetti opened the Bills scoring in the first quarter with a 18 yard run around the right side of the line. Albrecht converted the extra point and the Bills had a 7-0 lead. Joel Fish scored the second Bills TD after breaking two tackles and slipping 12 yards into the end zone. Then early in the fourth quarter, the defensive unit produced the third Bills TD when linebacker Neal Bowen intercepted a pass and went in from the 13 yard line. Finally, QB Nelson connected on a 38 yard pass with just nine seconds to go to give the Bills the final TD. The pass was thrown to running back Albrecht. Defensive lineman Bill Finch had a good performance as did Ken Brecht.

North Chicago Flames 13, Pee Wee Bills Gold 7

QB Tim Parsons ran a kickoff back 62 yards for a TD midway in the second quarter to push the Bills ahead of the North Chicago Flames 7-6 at the half, but the Flames scored with two minutes remaining and hung on for a 13-7 win. The Golds had two TD's called back and out gained North Chicago offensively 219 yards to 137, but the big play wasn't there. Mark Murphy rushed for 72 yards to lead the offensive 11. On defense, the coaches praised the work of the line consisting of Kevin Potter, Jim Siko, Mike Battaglini, Keith Wiencek, and Mark Murphy.

Golden Widgets 13, Elk Grove Dolphins 13

The pouring rain and muddy field at Elk Grove Saturday night didn't slow down the offensive play of QB Mark Loeffler as he scored a pair of TD's in the playoff game with the Dolphins which ended up tied 13-13. Playing the game without key personnel, the Bills rushed for 181 total offensive yards and had moved to a 13-7 lead midway in the final period. Loeffler scored on runs of 31 and 55 yards. He was aided by the running of backs Jim Burnetti, John Anderson, and Chris Fantuzzi. The good defensive play of Donnie Triplett, Mike Emmerson, Steve Wijas, and Craig Weyandt limited Elk Grove to 119 total offensive yards.

Addison White 28, Bills Pee Wee Red 12

The Addison Pee Wee Whites won their seventh game of the season without a loss as the Pee Wee Bills Red suffered a 28-12 loss last Saturday in Addison. Fullback Bill Hajek highlighted the Bills offensive play with a two TD performance on runs of 37 and one yards. The one yard run was set up following Tim Petersons' 55 yard kickoff return. The offensive backfield of Mike Mathis, Hajek and Peterson accounted for 124 total offensive yards. The coaches credited the good defensive performances of Jim Norton, Jim DeEmo and Pat Mulvihill.

Bills Heavies 16, Barrington All Stars 0

The Bills took the second half kickoff and marched down the field tearing up the middle of the Barrington line. Darrell Andre capped the drive with a 42 yard run off key blocks by Brian Weiner and Joe Furmanski. Weiner converted the important two point kick to move the score to 8-0.

Minutes later, following a fumble recovery by Jeff Berg, Tom Zeien broke loose for 31 yards for the final touchdown. Brian Weiner again kicked the extra point running the score to 16-0.

ST. MARY'S FOOTBALL TEAMS REACH FINALS

St. Mary's Buffalo Grove football teams will be in both final play-off games for the championship of the Chicagoland Catholic Football League. This is the first time both of the St. Mary's teams have appeared in the final games in the same year.

The St. Mary's senior team ran their record to 10-0 last Sunday by defeating St. Domotilla, 24-0 and will now face St. Mary's Riverside for the league championship.

Dave McCabe accounted for 83 yards and 2 TD's in Sunday's win. Four other running backs contributed heavily to the rushing statistics: Pete Serini 55 yards and 1 TD, Sean Dunlavy 42 yards, Paul Twarog 30 yards and 1 TD, and Tony Mason 32 yards.

Defensively, Pete Serini led the team with 11 tackles, with McCabe and Mason next at 5 tackles each.

The Widgets of St. Mary's reached the finals for the second consecutive year by defeating St. Mary's Riverside 20-14 in a hard fought re-match of a pre-season exhibition game. The Widgets, now 8-1 for the year, face St. Tarcissus in the championship game.

The Widgets (5th & 6th graders) took an early 7-0 lead on Mike Pash's 39-yard return of a blocked punt. This was offset by a Riverside touchdown before halftime so that the third quarter started with a 7-7 deadlock. In that quarter St. Mary's Buffalo Grove scored 2 TD's on a 10 yard pass from Pash to Marc Doran and on a run by Dan Leibforth. Leibforth led the rushers with 73 yards, Jay Marra 63 yards and Doran 38 yards.

The championship game will be played Saturday at Notre Dame High School Stadium in Niles. The Widgets game will be at 6:00 P.M. with the seniors game following at 8:00 P.M.

MOUNT PROSPECT MEN'S LEAGUE
RED DIVISION
Wombats 19, Shakey's 0

The Licht Paint-Power Motors Wombats boned up for the upcoming playoff with a 19-0 stomping of frustrated Shakey's Pizza Wednesday night to run their league leading record to 6-1.

The Wombats glawless "Rout Patrol" defensive performance, led by the awesome pass rush by Dave "No Show" Hutchings, snagged three interceptions, two by Scott "Butcher" Biermann and one by Jeff "Wheelie" Smith and humbled Shakey's offense by allowing only one first down.

Wombat quarterback Brian "Tunnel Vision" Reed called an effective, if not imaginative, game hurling a 33-yard touchdown toss to Al "Poppa" Ernst, catching a 27-yard double pass from Smith and scrambling on a broken play for a 16-yard score.

Pairings announced Saturday

'Lottery' time in prep football

A bigger numbers game than the state lottery will be played by hopeful football-playing schools in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) this weekend. Pairings for the third annual IHSA Football Playoff Series are schedule to be announced Saturday night.

The champion of each of the 67 football conferences will gain a playoff berth in its respective class, but the figure filberts will be burning the midnight oil Friday and Saturday trying to determine the "At Large" entrants in each of the five classes. The number of "At Large" berths available varies with each class. There are two spots in the smallest class (1A) and three spots in Class 2A, Class 3A, Class 4A and Class 5A, the largest class.

Elk Grove, Hersey and St. Viator and the Herald area are SA qualifiers.

Conferences are classified according to average conference enrollment. Schools eligible for consideration as "At Large" entrants are independents, conference co-champions and/or conference runners-up which achieve overall winning records of 80 per cent, having played a minimum of eight games prior to the conclusion of the ninth weekend of the season (Nov. 5-6).

THERE ARE 20 combinations of wins, losses and/or ties which will give a team a winning percentage of 80 or better from an eight-game schedule through a 10-game schedule. In simple arithmetic, the more games a team plays, the more losses it can absorb and still be eligible to qualify. Following are the records (by games in a schedule) which could earn a team an "At Large" berth in the Playoffs:

10-GAME SCHEDULE — 10-0 is 1.000, 9-1 is .900, 8-2 is .800, 9-0-1 is .950, 8-0-2 is .900, 8-1-1 is .850, 7-0-3 is .850, and 7-1-2 is .800.

9-GAME SCHEDULE — 9-0 is 1.000, 8-1, is .889, 8-0-1, is .994, 7-0-2, is .889, 7-1-1 is .994, and 6-0-3 is .813.

8 GAME SCHEDULE — 8-0 is 1.000, 7-1 is .875, 7-0-1 is .938, 6-0-2 is .875, 5-0-3 is .813, and 6-1-1 is .813.

If the "At Large" berths in a class cannot be filled by teams with winning percentages of 80 per cent or better, the IHSA Office will lower the level of percentages and select teams. This process will continue until each 16-team field has been filled.

SHOULD MORE teams be available for berths as "At Large" entrants than there are berths, a point system will be utilized to break ties for these spots. Simply, each potential team is awarded points for wins, ties, losses against teams with above .500 records, .500 records and below .500 records. In the event this procedure does not determine the qualifiers, a coin flip will break the tie.

Pairings will be drawn geographically according to the 16 qualifiers in each of the five classes this weekend.

Preliminary (First Round) games in each class will be played Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 1:30 p.m. unless the competing schools agree to a 7:30 p.m. start. Champions of eight conferences per class will host preliminary games. Those conferences selected to host the opening games were announced earlier. Champions of the other conferences within a class, plus the "At Large" selections, will be visitors in the preliminary games.

The field in each class will be paired to eight survivors after the preliminary games and they will battle in the quarterfinals at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 13. Semifinal games will be Saturday, Nov. 20 at 1:30 p.m.

Championship games in each of the five classes will be played on the artificial turf of Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University, the weekend of Nov. 26-27:

Class 1A — 12:00 noon, Friday
Class 2A — 2:30 p.m., Friday
Class 3A — 7:30 p.m., Friday
Class 4A — 2:30 p.m., Saturday
Class 5A — 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

CAR CORNER

with George Orth & Roger Nick

The first American car ever to be completed and successfully tested was a motor carriage assembled from existing odds and ends by Frank and Charles Duryea in 1893. The Duryeas, both skilled mechanics, put together a simple car that consisted of a one-cylinder, four horsepower engine fixed underneath the seat of a secondhand buggy and connected to the drive wheels by a belt. The carburetor was constructed from a perfume atomizer and an alcohol burner.

Is quarterback next up for extinction?

Jim Murray

What this world needs is not another endangered species. But I know of one which will go the way of the whooping crane, coelacanth, Great Plains bison, California condor, gray whale, Bengal tiger, kings, queens, emperors, maharajas and grizzly bears if something isn't done.

Next up for extinction is the Great American First String Quarterback. You can recognize him because he's got his arm in a sling, his finger in a splint, or he's lying in a bed full of pulleys and torsion bars and his knee is in bandages. Pretty soon, you'll only be able to see him in the zoo. If he doesn't have a limp and says he's a quarterback, he's an imposter.

The Dallas Cowboys' first stringer, Roger Staubach, joined the bone pile for a time, and he was joined there by Buffalo's Joe Ferguson. "Cowboys Win but Lose Staubach," was the typical Monday morning headline. So was "Bill's Lose Game, Ferguson for Year."

TURN TO ANY story. Here's a telltale paragraph in the Kansas City-Denver Broncos game story: "Chiefs' quarterback Mike Livingston was helped off the field with just over four minutes to play after bruising his back when tackled." On top of the same page was a picture of Joe (No-Knees) Namath of the Jets, taken just after Joe was knocked unconscious in the fourth quarter of the game against the Colts.

The Steelers' Terry Bradshaw went out with a neck injury which scared the doctors enough to rush him to the hospital when it occurred. The Rams' James Harris has been knocked out of action twice this season. So have both his backups, Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden, Atlanta's Steve Bartkowski is out for the season. And so on. It's not a position, it's a disaster area.

Years ago, injury to a first-string quarterback was so unheard-of that, when a defensive end broke the bones of Bobby Layne one afternoon, it was said that everyone in the league made it his business to run that end out of the league within two years. I don't ever remember Sammy Baugh being seriously injured. Or Sid Luckman or Bob Waterfield.

Any bhow-business operation — which is what the NFL is, after all — which tries to function without stars will soon find itself playing the art houses.

DO WE HAVE TO get stunt men for third-and-long-yardage sequences? Doubles for "big" plays? Do we put quarterbacks in glass booths? All of the above?

It would seem something has to be done. Or the game itself may be in traction or on crutches. It is the proud boast of generations of pro football coaches that it takes three to five years to make an NFL quarterback. Or a wheelchair quarterback.

Unaccountably, the league has dealt with the problem by toughening up the holding penalties called on the pass protection. This is like cutting down crime by suspending cops. Pretty soon, you'll have to read defensive linemen their rights before you can lay a block on them. Meanwhile, quarterbacks' heads are rolling all over the field. You don't see a sack anymore. You hear it.

One thing they ought to do for a start is disarm those players. Every doctor in the country knows that plastic helmets are as lethal as a tomahawk. They're assigned to protect the wearer's head but what is to protect the collar bones they smash into? What's underneath those miles of wrapping on defenders' forearms? Getting cracked by a plaster-of-Paris cast is about like getting hit by a falling safe. They protect the guy inside them, all right. But so do Sherman tanks.

Unless they want to have the Super Bowl field-generaled by two converted defensive backs who have to have the plays written on cardboard strapped to their wrists, the NFL hierarchy should get together and design some new rules. "Kill the quarterback!" might be a fun game for all those 280-pound King Kongs in the line, but it'll never sell at the box office. You never kill off the hero in the first reel, baby. There will be nobody left to buy the popcorn.

Nobody comes to the ballpark to watch safeties. If football doesn't learn to protect The Star, pretty soon there'll be a cast like an Italian movie out there. And an audience like one.

Bold Forbes passes his 'soundness test'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bold Forbes,the 1976 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes winner up for syndication, passed his "soundness test" Thursday and will be shipped to Kentucky for fertility tests.

Trainer Laz Barrera said Bold Forbes is scheduled to leave on Nov. 20 for Arthur Boyd Hancock's Stone Farm in Paris, Ky., where the tests will determine if the 3-year-old colt can go to stud next year.

"Bold Forbes passed his soundness test, taken by Dr. William Reed and Dr. James Hill this morning," said Barrera.

BARRERA SAID Aaron Jones is heading a syndicate dealing with the horse's owner, E. Rodriguez Tizol, but could not say how many shares will be offered or the price of each share.

Bold Forbes, a son of Irish Castle out of Comely Nell, was purchased as a yearling for $15,200 and started his career in Puerto Rico, where he won all five starts as a 2-year-old. Shipped to New York, he won the Tremont and Saratoga Special. He bucked his shins in winning the Special and did not race again until Dec. 31, 1975, at Santa Anita where he finished third in an allowance test for his first loss in eight races.

The speecy colt won six of 10 starts this year, with a second and a third. He has never been worse than third in 18 career starts as he posted a record of 13 wins, one second and four thirds en route to earnings of $523,035.

Bold Forbes' five victories this year have been in stakes races — the San Jacinto, Bay Shore, Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby and Belmont. He finished second in the Vosburgh his last time out, but was disqualified to third place.

ARCHERY THANKS

Dear Mr. Logan:

We would like to compliment you and the staff for the excellent coverage of the high school archery competition this year.

We would also like to publicly thank Mr. Russ Hoogerhyde who devoted many hours to coaching my girls with no compensation, purely out of love of the sport of archery. In addition, he has helped girls from at least three other high schools in this area.

Mr. Hoogerhyde is a six-time NAA champion from the years 1930-40. He has been voted into the Archery Hall of Fame. Mr. Hoogerhyde is retired and resides in this area. He went to the state finals in Normal, Ill. to watch the girls compete. He plays no favorites, helps those that ask, and gives credit where it is due.

Thanks again, Russ!

CONGRATS, WILDCATS

Dear Editor:

I'd like to use your paper to thank the Wheeling girls cross-country team for giving the community an exciting and successful season. Their state championship may have been unofficial in name, but it was official in our minds and hearts. It's good to know that there are dedicated and hard-working athletes who can follow their goals until they are achieved.

Congratulations to the Wildcat girls.

WHY NO STATE MEET?

Editor:

We fail to see why the Illinois High School Assn. doesn't sponsor a state cross-country meet for girls. They're missing the boat on that one.

MICHIGAN IS TOPS

Fans Forum:

There are going to be an awful lot of disappointed Ohio State football fans on Nov. 20 when Michigan wins a trip to the Rose Bowl by rolling over the Buckeyes by a big margin. Everybody always says that no matter what Michigan does throughout the season, when it comes down to the Ohio State game they just can't win. Not this year, I predict that the Wolverines will roll, 45-7.
